Titan II Fired 6,500 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A powerful Titan 2 missile run bled more than 6,500 miles Friday on a flight monitored closely for clues to problems which have hindered the rocket's development as a military weapon and as the booster for the two-man Gemini spacecraft.

The 103-foot-tall projectile, largest in the U.S. missile arsenal, propelled a heavy warhead into a target area in the South Atlantic Ocean in a test termed completely successful by the Air Force.

Big Farmers Beat Wheat Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Department officials said Friday returns show that the Kennedy Administration's tighter wheat control plan would have been rejected at Tuesday's nationwide grower referendum even if small producers had not been allowed to vote.

Until this year, farms with allotments of 15 acres or less were not eligible to vote because penalties of the control program did not apply to them.

Pope John Starts Novena And Rest

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII, steadily regaining strength, worked briefly Friday morning and then went into a nine-day spiritual retreat.

The pre-Pentecost retreat, or novena, provided the 81-year-old Roman Catholic ruler a chance to rest before facing the hot Italian summer and a mounting pile of Ecumenical Council business.

Tuesday night he suffered a relapse in his illness, a stomach disorder believed to be an ulcer or cancer with hemorrhaging. He has received blood transfusions and is taking blood clotting agents.

Federal Deficit Cut $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal budget deficit for the year ending June 30 probably will be a billion dollars less than had been estimated, the staff of the joint Senate-House Economic Committee said Friday.

The report estimated the deficit at about $7.8 billion, instead of the $8.8 billion President Kennedy forecast in his January budget.

Kennedy Plans To Beat Rocky

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy wound up a two-day visit here Friday with a political battle on strategy for a Democratic victory next year in Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's home state.

One of the chief tasks facing the Democrats is selection of a candidate to oppose Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, Rochester Republican, a frequent critic of Kennedy's Cuban policy.

Rocky's Minister Is Censured

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP)—The United Presbyterian Church formally censured Friday the minister who married Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the former Mrs. Margaretta F. Murphy.

A presbytery board of the United Presbyterian of the U. S. A. took the disciplinary action against the Rev. Marshall L. Smith for failing to get approval of his presbytery to marry a person divorced less than a year.

The censure was the lightest of five possible penalties, ranging up to expulsion from the church.

Morrissey Bids On Shortway Section

HARRISBURG — The Highways Department received a bid Friday on a section of the Keystone Shortway in Monroe County between Tannersville and Pocono Summit. The bid: 3.26 miles, concrete pavement 24 feet wide on each side of a variable width median, limited access, bridges for dry sawmill run, Swiftwater Creek and various small tributaries, James D. Morrissey, Inc., Philadelphia, $2,674,994.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Sagging late in the session, stocks peaked the stock market to a minor decline Friday.

Volume for the day dipped to 4.3 million shares from 4.4 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 0.85 to 720.53.

U.S. And Britain To Arm India Against Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and British commonwealth countries have launched an 18-month program to strengthen India's defenses against Chinese Communist pressure on the mountainous Indian northern frontier.

State Department and Defense Department officials made this known Friday and indicated there is active consideration of longer-term aid after the first phase of high-priority help is completed.

The new program has brought expressions of deep concern from Pakistan.

The program was discussed in conferences over the past week between the Kennedy administration and T. T. Krishnamachari, Indian minister of economic and defense coordination.

A Pakistan Embassy spokesman said it looks to him as if the United States is getting ready to give substantial aid to India, although, in the Pakistan view, no threat of a Chinese Communist military takeover of India exists.

Pakistan Fledge

The official said assurances are being sought from the United States to guarantee Pakistan against an attack by India. The United States has publicly stated in the past that it would not be indifferent to an aggression by either India or Pakistan against their neighbor, and has urged the two nations to mediate their Kashmir dispute.

Under the new military program, the United States has agreed to give further help to India in these categories:

- Improvement of road networks, particularly from Srinagar in Kashmir to Leh in northern Ladakh; re-equipment and re-supply of six Indian mountain divisions to make them fully effective in mountain warfare; top-priority consideration of India's air defenses, including the delivery of 24 C-119 Flying Boxcars by next month; improved communications, including radar air warnings systems; specialized training involving the use of small U.S. training teams in guerrilla warfare tactics.

Great Britain will have primary responsibility for building up India's air force.

A low priority was given to India's request for supersonic jet fighters, meaning that other requirements are regarded as more pressing.

New NATO Nuclear Force To Block Communist Jabs

OTTAWA (AP)—The 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization members wound up their spring ministerial meeting Friday after spelling out details of a new inter-allied nuclear force created to give more muscle to Allied striking power.

The four-point plan was outlined in a communique approved by foreign and defense ministers of NATO just before they ended a three-day session.

NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker hailed the nuclear agreement as an important advance for the Alliance.

In the communique, the ministers declared the West remains faced with a continuing threat. They expressed special concern about Communist threats in Berlin, Cuba and Laos.

"The members of the North Atlantic Alliance have both the right and the duty to protect their freedom and independence," the statement said.

The document referred to the nuclear steps as a plan "to organize the nuclear forces assigned or to be assigned to the supreme allied commander" in Europe, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer.

To meet French objections, the new structure was left without a name. The main points of the program were:

- Assignment of the British V-bomber force of 180 planes and three U.S. Polaris submarines to the NATO command.
- Appointment of a deputy by Lemnitzer to be responsible to him for nuclear affairs.
- Arrangement for officers from member countries to take part in nuclear activities at NATO headquarters and in coordination of operational planning at Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

—Fuller information to national authorities, both political and military.

On the multilateral force, Stikker had this to say:

"Consultations are now going on. The matter has to be brought back to the council, but it is not yet ripe and ready."

In addition to the nuclear striking force, the major military question considered by the ministers was that of balance between nuclear and conventional arms.

The communique made these other points:

- The threat to Germany and Berlin has not disappeared. The Alliance continues to abide by its declared intention to consider any attack on Berlin as an attack on the Alliance and to respond to such an attack.
- Because of the continued presence of Soviet military personnel in Cuba, "the situation there, with its repercussions in the region generally, gives cause for concern."
- The ministers expressed disquiet about renewed fighting in Laos and stressed the importance of efforts to win compliance with the Geneva agreement which ended the previous conflict in the Indochina kingdom.

May Frost Hits Some Farm Crops

STROUDSBURG — Frost was reported in sections of Monroe County Thursday night and early yesterday, but apparently no serious crop damage resulted.

John Withrow, Monroe County agricultural agent, said reports reaching his office showed some damage to potatoes and tomatoes not adequately covered. Some flowers were hit by the frost.

He said one farmer told him his new seedling of alfalfa was not hurt by the frost.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport forecast an overnight low of 32 to 38 for Friday night and said there will be "scattered" frost in the normally cooler areas.

New low records were set early Friday for the second straight night in many places. The 28-degree mark at Binghamton, N. Y., and Burlington, Vt., was lowest.

Cleveland 32; S. ranton, Pa., 32; New York City 39; Philadelphia 40, and Richmond, Va., 42.

Fruit and vegetable growers in the nation's Northeastern region waged a defensive battle Friday night against the third successive attack of late spring freeze.

The scene shifted east somewhat, and the new onslaught was not quite as severe as the record-breaking low temperatures and frosts of Wednesday and Thursday nights.

But in valleys and low spots from Maine to Delaware, and in eastern New York, farmers took extra precautions with straw and other covering for young shrubs and plants.

Apparently the $10 million grape crop of western and central New York was only slightly damaged by exposure to periods of chill in the upper 20s.

Frost damage to the hardy apple crop in the Appalachian area of Maryland and West Virginia was light.

Concerted efforts of the farmers and fruit growers with crops in tender stages apparently averted extensive damage to trees and shrubs.

The battle against frost took many forms. Smudge fires, wind machines, hovering helicopters, and swishing planes were used to stir the air and prevent crystallizing of the frosty dew. Plastic plant caps, bush baskets, straw, and even water spraying were used in efforts to prevent or ease the bite of frost.

Red Sub Base Near Haiti

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Construction of a Russian submarine base in Cuba's Oriente Province and a heavy buildup of Soviet troops in that area were reported Friday by refugees arriving in Florida on the cargo ship Morning Light.

Oriente Province lies just across the windward passage from the island of Hispaniola, which embraces troubled Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

There have been reports of Communist infiltration in the two countries.

Ramon de la Torre, one of 231 refugees who rode the Morning Light to freedom in the United States, said it is common knowledge in the city of Higuein that the Soviets have a busy submarine base at nearby Puerto Rico Beach.

Soviet subs are seen frequently in the surrounding waters, and hundreds of oil tanks have been erected in the area.

"You see two Russians for every Cuban in Oriente Province," said De La Torre, who worked on a farm near Higuein until he obtained the Castro government's permission to leave Cuba.

Dr. Juan Manuel Armaso of San Luis confirmed that "there are more Russians than ever in Oriente Province." He said natural caves 50 miles north of San Luis are being prepared for Russian installations.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and others in the administration have said the U. S. government has no evidence of a submarine base in Cuba, and that the government is satisfied that there are no major weapons in caves there.

Refugees arrived Friday from all six Cuban provinces, and residents of each province reported seeing Soviet military camps.

Sugar Prices Shoot Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Skyrocketing sugar prices touched off demands for a congressional investigation Friday and at least two sets of hearings are being organized.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said there are sugar surpluses on hand and most supplier countries are fulfilling their quotas. But he declared big producers may "put the squeeze on users including hoteliers, bakers, candy makers and the like" unless something is done.

Mansfield urged the Senate Finance Committee to look into the situation, and Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said he will be glad to hold a hearing as soon as one can be arranged.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., announced Thursday that a House Banking subcommittee she heads will start hearings early next month. Mrs. Sullivan said she preferred to call the group's activity a study rather than an investigation.

Mansfield told Byrd in a letter that sugar prices in his home state of Montana have jumped from $9.45 a hundred pounds a year ago to $14.05, with most of the increase coming this month.

He said bottlers no longer receive advance notice of price rises, but find that higher prices "are in effect the same day that they are notified."

Price Flaring?

"It would appear that the larger sugar producers are banding together, and the net result could well be to put the squeeze on all other users," Mansfield said.

"I would express the hope that there is no attempt being made by speculators or others to 'rig' the price of such a basic commodity as sugar," he added.

Mansfield said several members of Congress have been getting complaints about what he called skyrocketing price increases, and he expressed belief that "only through the use of the investigative power of the Congress can this matter be dealt with as it deserves."

A spot check of reactions across the country by The Associated Press showed little evidence of hoarding. The Agriculture Department said Thursday that supplies are ample and there will be no shortages unless consumers start panic buying.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Agriculture said Friday night "the speculative bubble in sugar" will burst under the weight of plentiful supplies.

"Speculators may be able to keep the bubble going for a while," said Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy, "but not for very long."

Murphy issued a statement saying that within the last few days the United States received "very large new commitments" for sugar deliveries from foreign countries.

HARRISBURG (AP) — House Speaker W. Stuart Helm said Friday he will press for action in the Pennsylvania legislature for passage of three so-called states' rights amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

The resolutions, prepared by a national group of legislative leaders with Helm as chairman, are awaiting action in the Rules Committee.

Helm met with Gov. Scranton Friday and discussed the governor's opposition, expressed Thursday at a mass conference, to the amendments.

"I met with the governor to give him my views on the resolutions and he gave me this," Helm said. "There is no ill feeling between us on this matter. He is entitled to his opinion and I to mine."

The speaker said the resolutions were only one of several legislative matters discussed between them.

The resolutions propose to wipe out the U.S. Supreme Court decision that courts can order state legislatures to reapportion; to impose a court of representatives from the 50 states over the Supreme Court, and to permit the states to adopt Constitutional amendments without congressional approval or action by a constitutional convention.

Rebel Governor Ordered To Court

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge Friday ordered defiant Gov. George Wallace into court next month for a legal showdown on the state sovereignty issue raised by the governor in his pledge to keep two Negroes out of a state university.

Asserting federal sovereignty, the Justice Department moved for an injunction against interference by Wallace with the enrollment of Negro students at the University of Alabama.

A governor "has no authority by 'interposition' or otherwise to obstruct or prevent the execution of the lawful orders of a court of the United States," the Justice Department said.

The youthful governor, often called "the fighting little judge," first defied a federal court in 1958 when he was ordered to turn over voter registration records to the civil rights commission.

The hearing will come a week before summer session registration.

Under a court order, Miss Vivian J. Malone, 20, of Mobile is to become the second Negro ever admitted to the main campus at Tuscaloosa, and David M. McGlathery, 27, will attempt to enroll at the center in Huntsville, his hometown.

"This action is brought by the United States in its sovereign capacity to safeguard the due administration of justice in its courts and the integrity of its judicial process," the federal complaint said.

Wallace's Threat

The Justice Department quoted Wallace's pledge of last Tuesday to "bar the entrance of any Negro who attempts to enroll in the University of Alabama."

"I embody the sovereignty of this state," he said.

Wallace, who has repeatedly denounced federal courts, filed suit last Saturday in U.S. Supreme Court for an injunction against use of federal troops in Alabama racial troubles. President Kennedy has stationed about 3,000 soldiers at two Alabama bases on a standby basis.

The hearing will come a week before summer session registration.

Russia To Pay More For Sugar

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has accepted an invitation to visit Cuba, the "first socialist state in America," the Soviet government announced Saturday.

Khrushchev also warned that Russia would reply to any attack on Cuba "with all the means at its disposal."

A joint communique issued at the wrap-up of a visit by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said the Soviet leader had accepted "with gratitude" Castro's invitation to visit the island republic. But no date was mentioned in the communique.

The promise of a visit by Khrushchev comes more than four years after the bearded Castro came to power and in swift steps turned Cuba into a Soviet ally only 90 miles from Florida. First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan visited Havana in February 1960, however, and was there again last fall on the delicate task of conveying to Castro the decision by Khrushchev to withdraw Soviet missiles from Cuba.

Ben Bella Calls For War On Portugal

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria issued a virtual declaration of war against Portugal and South Africa in the African summit conference Friday. He called for immediate military action.

The fiery revolutionary won the greatest ovation yet given in the conference and immediate support from the moderate president of Tanganyika, Julius Nyerere.

Ben Bella announced Algeria, which cast off French rule last year, has 10,000 volunteers ready to battle the Portuguese in Angola and he demanded that the conference "extend immediate aid to liberation fighters" there, in Portuguese Mozambique and in South Africa.

Speaking off the cuff, he called on all Africa "to die a little" for freedom of areas remaining under foreign domination. He urged the adoption of a charter for African unity.

"Our charter will be a weapon against us unless we establish a bond of blood with those who are fighting in South Africa, Angola and Mozambique," he added.

He brought the conference in gleaming Africa Hall to an emotional peak with a talk of hardly five minutes. The ovation swept among Africans on the floor, in the public and press galleries and in the corridors.

Nyerere drew thunderous applause with his response.

"I want to assure our gallant brother from Algeria, brother Ben Bella, that we are prepared to die a little for the final removal of the humiliation of colonialism from the face of Africa," he said.

"In our approach to the final liberation of Africa we are all agreed, without a single exception, that the time for words is gone. That is the time for action," Nyerere added.

Kennedy offered to lift the naval quarantine which he had imposed around Cuba, and to give a pledge not to invade, if the Soviet Union carried out its commitments.

The Soviets pulled out the missiles and bombers, and Kennedy lifted the quarantine. But Khrushchev never made good on the on-site inspection offer, Kennedy, therefore, took the position that the U.S. no-invasion offer had not become operative.

The movement is backed by the Dual Sovereignty National Committee, with Helm as chairman. It was organized last year.

Helm said he did not discuss the merits of the resolutions with Scranton, who had said at his news conference that he did not plan to intervene with his legislative leaders on the matter.

United States traditionally had with pre-Castro Cuba.

"There is no fatal inevitability of world war in our time," the communique said, in obvious reference to the ideological conflict with Red China.

"The sides noted with complete unanimity that in the present conditions the struggle for peace is the most important task of mankind."

This was a barb for Mao Tse-tung's Chinese, who favor a high-risk policy as opposed to Khrushchev's doctrine of co-existence with the West.

The promise of a visit by Khrushchev comes more than four years after the bearded Castro came to power and in swift steps turned Cuba into a Soviet ally only 90 miles from Florida. First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan visited Havana in February 1960, however, and was there again last fall on the delicate task of conveying to Castro the decision by Khrushchev to withdraw Soviet missiles from Cuba.

Worship in the House of God ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Boesch

Scripture—Psalms 24; 84; 121; 122; II Chronicles 5, 6.

After David conquered the mountain stronghold of Zion he made it his capital and brought the long-neglected Ark of the Covenant there. David himself danced and played the harp, while choirs sang the 24th psalm, which he wrote for the occasion.—II Samuel 6; Psalm 24.

Then, about 960 B. C., Solomon, in the 24th year of his reign, completed the magnificent temple in his capital, Jerusalem. To dedicate it, the ceremonies lasted a week. With great pomp the Ark was brought from the tent in Zion and installed in the temple.—II Chronicles 5, 6.

The 84th psalm was used as a processional liturgy for great pilgrim festivals. Worshipers assembled on the western hill of Jerusalem, looking down on the temple. The psalm reminds us that we reach our highest thoughts and emotions when we worship in God's house.—Psalm 84.

Psalms 120-134 were sung for centuries by pilgrims en route to Jerusalem. They are songs of "ascent," or going up to pray. Psalm 121 was perhaps sung in the pilgrim's land, and Psalm 122, at the beginning of the journey.—Psalms 121, 122. GOLDEN TEXT: Psalm 122:1.

Worship In The House Of God

By N. Speer Jones

ONE MAY, and should, worship God in many places — wherever one happens to be, in fact. However, there is special significance to the act of worshipping God in His Own house — the church. Today's psalms relate specifically to such worship, as does the account from Chronicles, which details the dedication of God's first real house of substance.

The 24th Psalm was written by David, most probably on the occasion of another and previous step in according God a formal dwelling-place here on earth. II Samuel 6 records how David brought the Ark of the Covenant from Kirjath-Jearim, where it had lain neglected for nearly half a century, to the house of Obed-Edom and thence to the city David had established as his capital, on Mount Zion. This city, thought impregnable, had been won by David from the hill tribes of the Canaanites. It was a mountain city, a stronghold.

This 24th Psalm of David's was very probably sung as the Ark was transported from the house of Obed-Edom to the city of Zion. Thousands of people participated in the great occasion, with — as the historian Josephus records — seven choirs of musicians and singers preceding the Ark in the great procession, with David himself playing the harp and dancing.

Psalm 84 is also a processional hymn. It has been used traditionally at great pilgrim festivals in Jerusalem, where the worshippers gathered on the western hill overlooking the temple. Even today the great synagogue in Jerusalem stands on this spot.

Love for the house of God is the great theme of this psalm, as reflected in the first verse, where the word "amiable" is used in its original sense — namely worthy to be loved.

The Valley of Weeping (verse 6) refers not to a sad place, but to the so-called Vale of Baca, where grew a kind of balsam tree which exuded copious "tears" of gum.

Verse 10 brings to mind the importance of worship in God's own house, and the great importance of any time spent in worship. In communion with the Greatest Intellect, we rouse our own highest thoughts; in communion with the Greatest Soul, we enlarge our own to its greatest capacity.

Psalms 121 and 122 belong to a series of 15 (120-134) entitled Songs of Ascent. This "ascent" means a going-up to Jerusalem to worship. Psalm 121 was probably sung before the pilgrims left their own countries; 122, perhaps, at the start of the great journey. Others in the group lead the worshippers along the journey and into Jerusalem itself.

In the chapters from II Chronicles (paralleled in I Kings 8:1-11) we find the record of Solomon's dedication of the great temple in Jerusalem. The celebration lasted a week, and the Ark was brought from its tent in Zion, the city of David, to the great new temple which Solomon had built. Verses 1-11 of chapter 6 sum up the ruler's dedicatory sermon; verses 12-42 contain his prayer.

WEST POINT GETS LUTHERAN

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—For the first time, a Lutheran has been named as a chaplain of the U.S. Military Academy. He is the Rev. James D. Ford, 29, an Ivanhoe, Minn., pastor named as assistant cadet chaplain, to serve until West Point Chaplain Dr. Theodore Speers, a Presbyterian.

Rev. Wohlson Honored At Church

THE members of the Monroe County Ministerial Association met recently in the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church. The Rev. David Fife, President, led those present in the devotional period and also conducted the business meeting during which the Rev. P. N. Wohlson, D.D., was honored by a standing ovation on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the Christian Ministry.

The program for the day consisted of presentations on the problem of Christian Liberty by President Fife and the Rev. Robert T. Zuch, and a discussion of this problem by the group.

This was the final meeting of the association until September.

Preaching The Gospel

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Hundreds of Asian Christians preaching the Gospel throughout Europe and the Americas are bringing about a revolution in church missionary work.

Gone are the days when the missionary was seen only as a white man making his lonely way through jungles or deserts to bring Christianity to primitive peoples.

Now, throughout Asia, these peoples have produced their own ministers. Many are setting out to preach in the Western countries whose missionaries originally converted them.

Scottish Bishop Leslie Neuhagen is head of the World Mission and Evangelism Division at the World Council of Churches headquarters in Geneva. He is intimately involved in this missionary revolution and has made frequent trips to Asia.

"The Asian churches are no longer tied to the apron strings of Western missions with headquarters in New York or London," he said. "Now that they have achieved independence they are striking out on their own."

Today there are Chinese missionaries in the United States and Canada, Indians in Africa, Japanese in Brazil and Filipinos in the Middle East, West Germany and Italy.

In Africa, the local churches still are developing, but Bishop Neuhagen predicted that soon African missionaries, too, will follow in the footsteps of their Asian colleagues.

He also predicted that the World Council of Churches, a purely Protestant body, eventually will collaborate with the Roman Catholic Church in this work. At present, reports still circulate of missionaries from the two great Christian denominations working in deadly rivalry with each other.

"The climate is changing," said Bishop Neuhagen. "It will take some time but I can foresee the day when the Protestant and Roman Catholic churches will undertake joint missionary work."

Bishop Neuhagen sees this exchange of missionaries between East and West as a shot in the arm for Christianity.

WHY SO BLUE?

MUCH ado has been made in recent months about "Blue Laws" a heritage handed down to us by the Puritan code of morality and incorporating the strict observance of the Sabbath.

Webster defines "Blue Laws" as "The prescribing of a severe or gloomy code of moral conduct; as blue laws." Blue is also defined with a feeling of low spirits, or lack of cheerfulness. "Blue Monday" describes the feeling of one who has spent Sunday in dissipation.

A flame burning blue, as the color of brimstone, is associated with the figurative presence of imps and devils. Hence we get the expression that "the air was blue with oaths" or "the air was full of blue devils."

The color blue is also a happy color. Blue is the color of a clear sky, the messenger of Spring the bluebird, and is also a symbol for purity. Here, in one color is represented both good and evil.

The ten commandments are a very strict code of conduct to live by, yet abiding by them brings a happiness in life that cannot be fathomed by the non-believer. The living of a chaste, spiritual life abiding life is by no means a gloomy, unpleasant one.

Unbounded joy and peace is given to those who truly follow the way Christ taught. This is not to say that they will not have many trials and tribulations, but they will be better equipped, with the armor of faith, to survive the heartbreaks that are sure to engulf every person.

Opponents of Sunday blue laws are substituting the dollar sign of profit in place of the sign of the cross. A material world will worship a material god. In such a world good becomes bad, and wrong becomes right. Trying to keep the Sabbath holy has become an evil thing, depriving some the pursuit of pleasure on this day. Hence blue law is a dirty word.

Why not plan special events for Saturday instead of Sunday? Must the lust and greed for money dominate the one day of the week set aside for worship?

"What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Matt: 16:26

Some of the original blue laws are, of course, in error, such as the seeking of the death penalty for adultery, and the forbidding of trial by jury. There were some 45 of these laws of which now, only those pertaining to the observance of the Sabbath remain, and some of these have been adopted by state governments after serious consideration.

As far as I know, God has not yet changed any of the Ten Commandments and one of them orders "Remember the Sabbath, and keep it holy." There should be no doubt about the meaning.

Men seek loopholes in laws whereas God states in a firm "THOU SHALT NOT . . ." Any question?

Dr. Olson Heads Lutheran College

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Dr. Raymond M. Olson, director of stewardship of the American Lutheran Church and president of the National Lutheran Council, has been named to head California Lutheran College at Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Announcing his acceptance of the presidency, Dr. Olson said here that the effective date of the move will be "no later than Sept. 1," with a possibility that an earlier time can be arranged.

The California college, owned jointly by the ALC and the Lutheran Church in America, is preparing for the opening of its third academic year in September. Although in the planning and development stage for several years, the school first opened for classes in September, 1961, with 300 students.

Dr. Olson, 52, will succeed Dr. Orville Dahl, who resigned the position a year ago after spending several years in planning and developing the academic program and campus facilities. For a short period, prior to his death early this year, Dr. Seth C. Eastwood served as acting president after his retirement as president of Pacific Lutheran University at Parkland, Wash.

California Lutheran, located on 267 acres in the Conejo Valley, about 20 miles west of Los Angeles, is the first major college development to be undertaken jointly by the two Lutheran church bodies which now comprise the National Lutheran Council. Both the ALC and the LCA were established by Dr. Olson was also a key figure in the merger negotiations which resulted in the formation of the ALC in 1960. He was director of stewardship in the former Evangelical Lutheran Church, largest of the merging bodies, from 1952 to 1960, and was named to the same post in the new 2,445,000-member ALC.

During the Third Assembly of the Lutheran World Federation in Minneapolis in 1957, Dr. Olson was elected chairman of the world body's Commission on Stewardship and Congregational Life, a post he still holds. This responsibility will require his attendance at the LWF assembly in Helsinki, Finland, July 31 to August 11.

Dr. Olson was born at Eagle Grove, Iowa, on June 15, 1910. After his graduation from high school he worked with his father on the family farm for three years. He then entered Waldorf College at Forest City, Iowa, and graduated in 1932. He obtained his B. A. from Augustana College at Sioux Falls, S. D., in 1934 and his Th. M. from Luther Theological Seminary at St. Paul, Minn., in 1939.

A parade to publicize the school will be held on Saturday, June 15. All children of the community are invited to decorate bicycles, or come prepared to walk and meet at the Elementary Center at 2 p. m. Also, registrations for the school will be received at this time.

Aftermath Of Primary
Board Finishes
Official Count

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County judges acting as the county board of election completed the official tabulation of primary votes late last night.

The court found two discrepancies and had not decided, at press time, what action they would take.

The errors were in Hamilton Township Northern District and Hamilton Township Southern District.

In the northern district the election board failed to enter the final vote count on the official ballot but did include the write-ins.

In the southern district the figures on the official ballot did not agree with the figures on the unofficial ballot.

The court may open the Hamilton Township machines and have the election board correct its error or call the election board before the court for explanation and correction.

Other Changes

Other minor discrepancies: Almost all election boards failed to break down the total vote count into party; many boards did not total write-in votes for the candidates by party; East Stroudsburg sixth ward failed to record the total vote count on the official ballot, and Smithfield Township voting machines showed 401 votes cast and official records showed 400.

The court searched the records of East Stroudsburg sixth ward and proved that the number of votes cast indicated on the unofficial ballot was correct. In Smithfield Township a search of the records proved that 401 votes had been legally cast.

Another point brought to light by the large number of write-ins is that many votes were cast with incorrect names of candidates.

In Stroud Township voting districts, the office of township auditor was vacant on the ballot but Guy P. Dean, III, received write-in votes from both parties for the office. The votes were cast as follows—Guy Dean, P. Dean, III, Guy P. Dean, Jr.

Such candidate will have to file a petition with the county board of election and prove that all these votes should be listed under his name. Attorney Leo Achterman, solicitor to the board said, "The burden of proof lies on the candidate."

The same ruling applies to all candidates who received write-in votes and are thereby nominated to an office.

Fire Levels Cottage At Canadensis

CANADENSIS—Fire, which was started by a faulty gas heater, burned to the ground a two-story frame cottage owned by John Huntington of New York City shortly after 4:10 a. m. yesterday.

David Blitz, Barrett Township fire chief, estimated the loss at $25,000, partially covered by insurance. The cottage was unoccupied at the time.

The fire had been burning about 15 minutes before it was discovered and reported by Joseph Dirren, Springfield, Delaware County, who has a summer home about 75 feet from the Huntington cottage.

Mrs. Dirren told firemen that she awoke, saw flames creeping along the porch of the Huntington cottage and said in a few minutes the entire building was on fire.

Flames leaped as high as 60 to 80 feet into the air at the height of the blaze, but the 40 firemen at the scene were able to confine damage to the cottage and the area immediately surrounding it. There was no wind.

Firemen were at the scene until 6:30 a. m. and returned last night to wet down the rubble after smoke was reported coming from what was left of the building.

Genevieve Blatt Calls For State Constitution Revision

STROUDSBURG — Genevieve Blatt, Democratic Secretary of Internal Affairs, called last night for a two-party campaign to educate the public on the necessity for revision of the state constitution.

She told the Monroe County Democratic Club at the YMCA that the last four governors, two Democrats and two Republicans, all called for revision of the 1873 state constitution.

There were several county Republicans in the audience.

"Most people have so little conception of what the state constitution is or how it affects them," Miss Blatt said. "I don't mean to be snobbish, but the man in the state couldn't care less."

She said too many people don't know the constitution, think it is too hard to understand and have a "towering indifference" to it.

The first woman secretary of Internal Affairs said too many people have "a terrible suspicion" that any change is for the worse.

"They are also people with selfish interests who play on these prejudices," she said.

Gov. William Scranton has recommended a constitutional convention.

Miss Blatt said she wants to put the question for or against a constitutional convention on the ballot next November, then elect delegates in the spring primary and hold the convention in the summer of 1964.

The people would vote to accept or reject the constitution drafted at the convention.

Miss Blatt compared the state constitution to the U. S. Constitution. The federal constitution is less than one-quarter the size of the state constitution and has been amended one-third as many times.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. S. Bryden Taylor, Stroudsburg, the former Trudy Wright, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home.

Rev. John A. Bolter will officiate and burial will be in Hamilton Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Monday.

Pressmen's Banquet On

The off-again, on-again banquet of the Stroudsburg Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union is on again for tonight at 6:30 at the Fernwood Hotel.

The postponement announced yesterday by president, Joseph E. Corby, was over-ruled at a meeting yesterday, according to George Carmella, and the banquet will be held as originally scheduled.

Mrs. R. Slutter Condition Is Listed Fair

SCRANTON — Mrs. Ruth Slutter, 25, of Henryville, RD 1, was reported in fair condition yesterday in Scranton State Hospital where she is being treated for injuries sustained in a four-car accident on Route 611 on Thursday.

Mrs. Slutter, the Republican candidate for Monroe County prothonotary and clerk of courts, suffered head and chest bruises in the mishap. She had previously been reported in poor condition.

Bride Dies

PORT JERVIS, N. Y. — Mrs. Lydia Wonsidler, who was married just last Saturday, died Friday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident. She was 28.

Her husband, David, 32, is in critical condition at St. Francis Hospital.

Strange Lights
In The Sky

STROUDSBURG — Those lights in the sky which some Pocono Mountains residents saw Thursday night may have been man made.

The Associated Press reported from Wallups Island, Va., that a vivid cloud of sodium vapor was ejected into the sky in a space agency experiment to study atmospheric conditions.

The dispatch said the reds, oranges and pinks of the club, released at an altitude range of 27 to 127 miles, were visible for hundreds of miles from the launch site.

Astronaut Politicians

The newest lobbyist in Washington are the seven Project Mercury astronauts.

As Gordon Cooper was riding in splendor through an emotional crowd in Washington Tuesday, Alan Shepard, the first astronaut to ride an Atlas missile into space, was urging high government officials to allow a 10th Mercury spaceflight — a 54-orbit and 72-hour flight.

Shepard is the man who would make the flight.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials are reluctant to stage another $10 million flight. They want to get on with the two-man Gemini space flights in preparation for landing a man on the moon before 1970.

James E. Webb, head of NASA, said, "Unless we find a gap in the information—this will be the last shot." He said a decision would be made in a few weeks.

We hope that decision will be made in calm, scientific atmosphere and not under pressure from the astronauts who want one more Mercury ride in space—however good their reasons may be.

If the major scientific questions of the effect of weightlessness on man in space have been answered by nine Mercury flights, then we should turn to the next problem and not waste any money on an unnecessary project.

We can learn many of the same things from two-man flights in space in the Gemini capsule. It has not been said publicly, but we assume that the original seven astronauts would be first to qualify for further man-in-space missions.

A more important question than another Mercury flight is a decision on the man-in-the-moon program. We must decide soon whether it is best to hurry a man to the moon to insure being first, or whether it is better to probe the surface of the moon with instrument landings.

Freedom Fighter

Not so long ago the report came from Cuba that an American-owned plane had attempted to bomb oil installations in Havana. The bombs, so the report said, had failed to explode. But other reports, coming in from the anti-Castro underground, said that a noise had been heard, which would indicate that something had been hit.

The plane in question was a twin Beechcraft C-45, piloted by Geoffrey Sullivan, of Watertown, Conn., and owned — on a still largely unpaid note — by a handsome Irishman named Alexander Rorke, Jr., who boasts that he was the first American reporter to be jailed by Castro. Though nobody had seen the plane take off from any point that would have indicated an infringement of the neutrality laws, the U. S. government grabbed the Beechcraft in Connecticut the other day.

It is now held at Bradley Field, near Hartford, and its owner can't reclaim it, though he insists that it was seized without a warrant and that no charges have been preferred against him.

The loss of the plane is the second serious setback which Mr. Rorke, a dedicated anti-Communist who wants to help the Cubans get rid of Castro, has encountered in recent weeks. Before his troubles with the plane he had a power boat, the Violyn III, which was kept by the British from using Norman's Key, an island in the Bahamas, as a possible base for raids against Castro ships.

The Violyn III was permitted by the British to return to Dinner Key, Fla., where it was seized by the Coast Guard. Now held by the U. S. Customs in the Miami River, the Violyn III is, according to Mr. Rorke, "rotting" because of the salt that is backing up into his exhausts and "ruining" the manifold.

Mr. Rorke insists, once again, that no charges have been preferred against him for violating any laws of the United States with the Violyn III.

The government, obviously, thinks it has good reason to sequester the Beechcraft and the Violyn III, and maybe it has. But, regardless of the technical legal rights and wrongs of the case, what makes Mr. Rorke particularly angry is the invasion of what he considers to be his moral rights as a dedicated freedom fighter.

Sitting at a luncheon table this week and letting his food grow cold, Mr. Rorke spoke of what he considers to be the double standard involved in application of the neutrality laws. Only yesterday, he said, he was busy conducting anti-Castro leaflet raids over Cienfuegos and Matanzas in Cuba.

He did this, he said, for Cubans, but the tab for the raids was, as he put it, "picked up by the C.I.A.," which would indicate that the raids had been approved by a U. S. government agency.

What Mr. Rorke wants to know is why it is right to break a law at one time and wrong to break it at another. Before 1963, he said, the U. S. government was itself involved in violating the neutrality legislation in regard to Cuba. But today it is deemed illegal even when anti-Castro Cuban patriots mount their raids against Cuba from Central America or some uncharted rock in the Caribbean.

What bothers Mr. Rorke is that the crackdown on the Cubans seems, inferentially, to condemn much of the U. S. heroic past. If anti-Castro Cubans are to be kept from fighting Castro, he says, then General Claire Chennault of Louisiana was wrong to have organized the Flying Tigers to help the Chinese fight the Japanese in the days before Pearl Harbor.

And it was wrong for American fliers to have enlisted in the Eagle Squadron to fight the Nazis for the British. Beyond that, Mr. Rorke recalls the time when Raoul Lafferty of Wallingford, Conn., helped organize the Lafayette Escadrille to carry out air missions against the Germans in World War I. This was before the U. S. had formally entered the war.

It is Mr. Rorke's contention that any American citizen should have the blessing of his government for enlisting in the war against tyranny anywhere. Americans are fighting against Communists in southeastern Asia.

They are contributing to Israel in its struggle to maintain its territorial integrity against the Arab states. Why, then, discriminate against an American freedom fighter for choosing Castro as his target? Mr. Rorke wants to know.

Constitution Vs. Segregation

BY JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

THE framework by which southern Negroes are trying to pull themselves to freedom is the Constitution.

It is a statement of the supreme law and no law, whether federal or state, can stand in opposition to it.

Today in the South racial injustices have forced the victims to react with a sharp break with tradition. Where Southern Negroes heretofore "kept their place," now they are openly jarring the white man for his policies of white supremacy.

Those who feel sympathy for the Negro cause must not be blindfolded to the fact that the struggle must be continued within the framework of law.

It is no victory to achieve equality by violence and illegal means. One does not make the law work by circumventing it.

On the whole, the Negroes in the South have acted within the law in their struggles. The demonstrations and parades are legal. The burnings and rock-throwing are not.

Negroes realize this. They have chosen a path. The break has come in recent demonstrations and court decisions. Is their victory constitutionally correct?

Stretching The Law
The great document is not ultimately specific on this. It is never totally explicit on anything. It is the job of the Supreme Court to stretch the Constitution—a very elastic document—over existing situations.

Only the interpretations given to the Constitution by the court are specific. Let any racist quote all the doctrine he please—the Supreme Court has ruled segregation illegal.

The amendments to the Constitution that bear on the question are these:

1. Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech . . . or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

14. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States. . . . deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

15. The right of citizens to vote shall not be denied or abridged by any state on account of race, color, or condition or previous servitude.

This is fairly explicit, but racists have been able to draw up laws to circumvent their meaning.

Birmingham Violence
In Birmingham, Negroes formed a parade, they marched down the street, they bore signs. White police arrested them because they "incited violence."

The violence would have been on the part of outraged whites. In effect, they were saying to the Negroes, "You must go home because if you keep parading, I will become violent and break a law."

The Supreme Court is explicit on this point. In a case decided in 1961, called Terminiello vs. Chicago, William O. Douglas wrote the court opinion. The case involved a man arrested because his speech incited riot.

Douglas said, concerning the city ordinance which allowed the arrest, "The ordinance permitted conviction of petitioner if his speech stirred people to anger, invited public dispute, or brought about a condition of unrest. A conviction resting on any of these grounds may not stand."

Here the court says you may not arrest a person if his speech or public actions bring about a condition of unrest.

Sit-In Decision
And now, in a case decided last Monday, the court was unanimous in saying that a state or city could not interfere in any fashion with peaceful sit-in demonstrations in places of public business.

The Birmingham Negroes, and Negroes in other racially troubled cities, may now exercise their right of peaceful demonstration for redress of grievances without fear of jail.

This case will probably have a more far-reaching impact on hard-core segregation spots than any since the famous school desegregation case in 1954.

Peaceful Assembly
The right to assemble peaceably is guaranteed to us by the first amendment. An ordinance requiring a permit for a guaranteed freedom is allowed. But the permit must be granted in every case.

If the issuing officer denies the permit, and the courts provide that he may be brought to trial after the permit is denied, then the statute requiring the permit is illegal.

As the court says in Cantwell vs. Connecticut, "A statute authorizing previous restraint upon the exercise of the guaranteed freedom by judicial decision after trial is as obnoxious to the constitution as one providing for like restraint by administrative action."

Guaranteed Freedom
To sum up: Alabama police officials arrested the Negroes for exercising a guaranteed freedom, and for not carrying permits which they did not need under law.

Are the Negroes asking for anything unconstitutional when they ask for equal housing, integrated schools, the chance to use the same facilities as the white man? Some may argue that separate but equal facilities are all right. The court thinks differently.

Separate But Equal
The President's Civil Rights Committee once remarked, "The separate but equal doctrine is one of the outstanding myths of American history."

In Brown vs. Board of Education—the school desegregation case of 1954—Chief Justice Earl Warren, speaking for a unanimous court, said:

"We conclude that in the field of public education the doctrine of 'separate but equal' has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

"To separate Negro children from others of similar age and qualifications solely because of their race generates a feeling of inferiority as to their status in the community that may affect their hearts and minds in a way unlikely ever to be undone."

Alabama schools are still largely segregated, however. This is the same principal brought out by Justice John M. Harlan in the famous case of Plessy vs. Ferguson. In that case, decided in 1896, the court upheld the principal of segregation in public conveniences because of the separate but equal doctrine.

Justice Harlan dissented eloquently, and his dissent was to gain favor with the court in 1964. This was only one of many instances where the court has overturned previous cases because of new social standards.

Law School Segregation
Another argument for integrated schools was brought out in Sweatt vs. Painter. In this case a young Negro wanted to enter the University of Texas law school but was denied admission. The school had a separate and "equal" law school. The court decided Sweatt was denied his rights in being barred.

They said that the Negro school excluded most of the students—the white ones—that attended law schools. With smaller faculty and fewer facilities, the school was unequal. Here, the case was decided because the Negro school was forced to reject white applicants, as well as vice versa.

Housing Segregation
Apartment owners turned to the use of restrictive covenants to exclude Negroes. These were agreements designed to keep Negroes from white buildings.

This practice was slapped down by the court in 1948 in the crucial case of Shelley vs. Kraemer. The parties who brought the case to the court were the apartment owners themselves. They said that a St. Louis judge who said they must integrate their buildings denied due process of law and the privileges and immunities of citizens.

The Supreme Court said that a state action was taken against these apartment owners, thus bringing them under the provisions of the 14th amendment.

In summing up the case for integration, the court spoke of the owner's plea that if the Negroes could be excluded, they might also be excluded from Negro apartments.

Equal Protection
The court said, "It is no answer to say that the courts may be induced to deny white persons rights of ownership and occupancy on grounds of race or color."

"Equal protection of the laws," they said, "is not achieved through indiscriminate imposition of inequalities."

These are but a few of the cases that the Supreme Court has heard and passed upon.

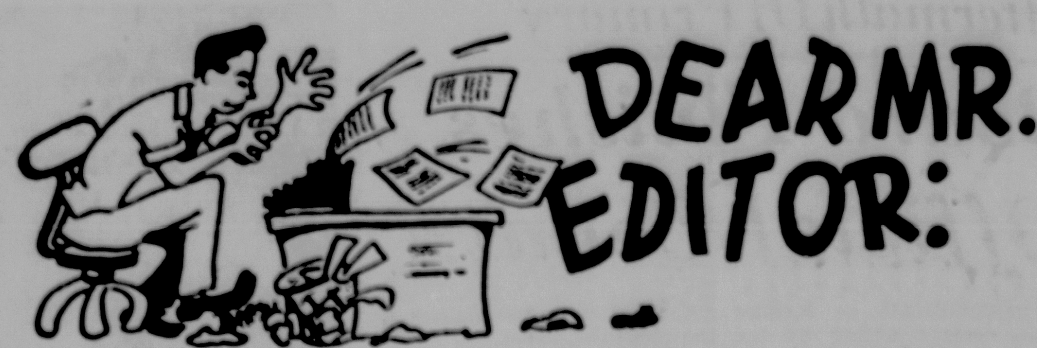

Before 1960, the separate but equal doctrine was used to show that purely Negro facilities could be just as good as white facilities. In 1964 the court relied on psychology and sociology unheard of in the old era. They realized the great harm done to Negro children and adults by segregation.

Libertarian Court
In this century, the position of the court has been that of the great libertarian.

Racists in the South cry out "states rights" and other catchphrases. The constitution does say that states have all rights not given to the federal government by the constitution. But the Supreme Court shows that this document upholds the equality of Negroes. There is even an amendment on this—the eighteenth which does away with second-class citizens.

This is a country of laws, not men. The law says the Negro shall be free. The white bigots in the south—and north—take the law into their own hands.

The bigots are the criminals. They should be segregated from the mass of society who believe that human beings have inalienable rights—regardless of color.

Tocks Island, Program Control, Liquor Board, Personal Qualifications

Liquor Board Challenged

Editor, The Record:
Please accept my thanks for your fairness, to bring the truth to your readers. When a wheel like the secretary of the Liquor Control Board accuses me of misstatements, he should be able to prove it, not dodge the truth, because he is unable or unwilling to do so. The glory of the clerks who have the full protection of civil service, who are "promoted from the ranks" some of them clerical since prohibition, are still clerks and they come from the same lists that temporary men do. Civil Service examinations for clerk are given approximately every year. They are not recruited from colleges as Mr. Shea would have you believe.

He is not guilty of misstatement, just not telling the complete story. He is smart. Every year I worked in the store, only one college student and four non-students were employed. I challenge the secretary to say other official to prove these statements to be incorrect, then the public will judge who is a liar.

1. I will prove to anyone, a clerk who still is employed was docked for cash receipt shortage.

2. After working about six months a clerk is laid off for a month. November, because there are three holidays they won't have to pay him for, required in December, he works four times as hard before Christmas and New Year, they lay him off and dock him when the store is closed because of the holidays.

Would anyone in private enterprise, making $100,000.00 be so cheap as to deprive a clerk ending $10.80 a day or about $30 a week take home pay of a paid holiday, after working like a mule before the holiday? I may not have been working 50 years, thank heaven, and I never came across anyone so cheap.

3. Is it a fact that you hold up a clerk's pay for seven weeks, so that you have to count thousands of bottles (do an inventory) after the clerk is laid off because you distrust him? I am sure you can add up a few weeks' wages in less time than that with your Univac machines.

4. The temporary clerk is free to accept a position on your terms or starve, just like the cool miner is free to accept or refuse the dangers of riding his life in the mines, a mile down the shaft.

He does this because he has to eat and support his family. too. He does not have political pull to get a soft job. He is probably over 50 years of age, living on a society which starts a man over 40 unless he is lucky to possess a skill which is urgently needed.

This is the reason a temporary clerk puts up with your terms, washes floors, toilet bowls, unloads trucks, as many as $50 cases of liquor some days.

Then he is rewarded by a lay-off without the benefits of unemployment insurance. I am surprised you didn't know that, Mr. Shea.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for allowing the public to know the truth.

Importance Of Planning

Editor, The Daily Record:
I wish to commend you for the fine editorial of Wednesday, May 22, 1963, entitled "A Tocks Island Plan."

"How long can we wait" is the question placed before all thoughtful citizens of Monroe County.

If you will recall, the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company presented a program recently in the Court House, in which experienced men in the field of planning and zoning, explained the benefits from such programs. This same company is offering classes to interested community leaders in Allentown, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton.

Why hasn't Monroe county been offered such a program? Perhaps little interest was shown in learning about a relatively new subject. The League of Women Voters has studied it and we are still studying the various ideas on county-wide and regional planning as mentioned in your editorial.

The East Stroudsburg Planning and Zoning board has been active and really accomplishing a great deal for the borough. One of their open meetings will be held on Tuesday evening, May 28th at seven p. m. at the East Stroudsburg school. Their main concern at this time, is redrawing sections of the town and bringing up-to-date shopping and parking facilities and a larger Post Office to residents and visitors alike.

But what about surrounding townships that have wooded areas and nice homes: will our supervisors and commissioners begin to work together toward the common goal of giving our county an orderly growth or will we become an area as mistreated as the counties surrounding the Gettysburg National Park?

Citizens of Monroe county, the heart of the Poconos, it is up to you!

ALMA A. NICHOLS
President, League of Women Voters of the Stroudsburg

Proper Control The Answer

Editor, The Daily Record:
Little courage is required in investigating against a practice after the mass of evidence condemns and the public is aroused concerning it. The writer is equally opposed to large scale spraying programs and affirms it on his stack of Audubon Society magazines.

Our knowledge is inadequate and those responsible are on the proverbial horns of the dilemma; no matter what course, they are and will be criticized. For one who has seen the destruction wrought by gypsy moths will appreciate the fire hazard.

The forester is concerned about this as well as the possible loss of timber.

Yet the contention is, that there is more validity in the action to control the gypsy moth than in the attitude regarding forest fires. Let us be equally indignant and outraged at the person who thinks a little "controlled" burning is the ideal way to provide deer habitat. The unfortunate flaw in this thinking is that the driest and windiest day in the spring is the time to do their "controlled" burning.

Not all the people who consent to this have mental quirks. Quite a few are responsible citizens, some even call themselves sportsmen, but when they get behind a gun, they undergo a mental transmutation which causes them to think somewhat erratically, much as some drivers do behind the wheel.

Let those who advocate burning do so on their own land, not others, or the public's, or unceded land.

But for the careless and wanton destruction of the woods, there might be a thriving pulpwood industry, more sawmills other woods products industries in the Poconos. There is the cost of men and equipment necessary to protect against fires a good part of the year.

That forests, deer, and other wild creatures are compatible and the management of same is feasible has been shown repeatedly.

For gypsy moths and other voracious and destructive insect pests, the sword is control, as with all biological units. The need was and is for greater public support (especially funds) for biological control research. This was neglected in favor of quicker, more spectacular, and profitable chemical controls.

The cure as Rachel Carson suggests, is a combination of both methods.

Questions On Tocks Island

Editor, The Daily Record:
The Record reports, in a news item from Hawley, that Dr. Goddard, Pennsylvania's secretary of forests and waters, trumpeted on the "Value in Tocks" before the Lake Wallenpaupack Association.

The members of the Anti-Dam Committee are interested in learning about some other things. It seems to the writer that the logical source of this information is Dr. Goddard.

It is the general understanding among the people of Bushkill that about a half million dollars was spent by the State Department of Forest and Waters for various parcels of property in our community.

The excuse for this spending, our people believe, is the expectancy of building the dam. If this is true, the members of the Anti-Dam Committee would like to know, why were those particular parcels purchased?

To this very day, ruins remaining from the 1955 disaster are still standing as they have been since that time.

Why were not those buildings bought instead of the quality properties that were purchased and demolished?

It is the opinion of the Anti-Dam Committee that this is the important matter that should be discussed; not the vapors at the Hawley meeting.

It is a fact that not one cent has ever been appropriated by Congress for the dam. If any money ever is appropriated, the newspapers of the not-to-be-undoubtedly valley will undoubtedly run these headlines comparable with those which resulted from Astronaut Cooper's exploit.

America's greatest authority on dams and water conservation is Elmer T. Peterson, author of "Big Dam Foolishness." He describes Tocks as an OUTRAGE.

It is my opinion that it is a needless, stupid, prospective waste of over two billion dollars as well.

HENRY R. SCHNITZER
President, Anti-Dam Comm.

Matos Gives Background

Editor, The Record:
I am very sorry that the school board accountant, Mr. Crane, was not able to keep up with my figures concerning the school budget and therefore assumed that I cannot read.

I can readily understand how this error in "judgment" could have taken place since my job as engineering program manager in the rocket field with the U.S. government requires me to work with figures accurately and quickly every day.

Therefore I can realize why it was difficult for Mr. Crane to keep up with the figures and admitted that he was "lost" during the verbal discussion on the school board figures at the May 15, 1963, school board meeting.

But Mr. Crane shouldn't feel too bad because, after all, my position requires me to be trained in cost analysis as well as budget preparations and cost estimates.

In fact, one of my responsibilities as a program manager is the requirement to furnish a planning schedule at the start of each fiscal year. Included in this schedule are the cost estimates, a budget and a cost analysis of last year's budget as related to actual accomplishments.

It also includes a justification for a continuance of the program at the present funding rate, or for an increase or decrease in the funding dependent upon the project accomplishment schedule.

For Mr. Crane's information, I am a graduate engineer with a bachelor's degree in aeronautical engineering with advanced studies in atomic physics and nuclear reactor engineering.

I am also an author of 20 classified and unclassified technical reports and articles on rocket engine design as well as the co-designer of the rocket engine used in the now famous X-15 rocket ship and of others suitable for use in manned and unmanned rocket vehicles.

However, in deference to Mr. Crane's difficulty in keeping up with figures in a verbal discussion and at his suggestion, I will state my questions in written form if a written answer is returned in reply.

DOROTHY DOLL,
Sec'y-Treas.

Domestic Pet Legislation

Editor, The Daily Record:
This letter is being written as an appeal to all owners of dogs and cats.

Bill 322, which would include dogs and cats in the present list of domestic animals, has now reached a sub-committee. We are now asking you to write to Senator Rowland B. Mahony, Senate Bldg., Harrisburg, Penn., urging the speedy passage of Bill 322.

It is hoped that all pet owners will write, in order that our domestic pets will have the status and protection they deserve.

State News Roundup

Bull Asks Meat, Civil Service Law

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leard H. Bull, state secretary of agriculture, said Thursday he feels fairly sure the Legislature will pass two Scranton administration proposals—a uniform civil service act and a mandatory meat inspection law.

Bull told the City Farmers Club of Pittsburgh that the inspection act would require a state inspector to be present any time an animal is killed for human consumption.

He said the bill, which would govern small butcher shops that slaughter only one or two animals a day, would cost an estimated $300,000 annually at the outset and eventually would cost about $1.5 million a year.

Hull said the civil service proposal would make government service more attractive.

"Many good people won't come with the state if they think they'll be out of a job in four years," he added.

Local College Tuition Debated

HARRISBURG (AP)—A heated dispute over student tuition erupted Thursday at a public hearing here on the S. R. administration's proposed community college bill.

It was one of the few objections expressed at the hearing as 22 educational, industrial and church groups lined up almost solidly in favor of the measure.

Rep. Walter H. Morley, D-Philadelphia, argued that students attending the community colleges would be forced to pay some $300 a year under the new bill, while tuition at four-year state colleges is only $250.

The State AFL-CIO also expressed the opinion that the estimated $300 figure should be reduced.

Another objection was to the lack of a provision in the bill for the state to share in capital costs. The measure, as written, assumes local facilities and those of co-operating colleges will be used, witnesses pointed out.

School Authority Sells Bond Issue

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Public School Building authority reported Friday it sold a $23.26 million bond issue to an investment group by Halsey, Stuart and Co., Inc., and Associates, of New York City.

The bonds will cover 12 projects in 10 school districts. They also will include money to refund a 1960 bond issue at a savings the authority estimated at $2.8 million for the 13 school districts involved.

The successful bidder on the new 40-year issue offered $22,798,987 for the bonds and a net interest charge of 3.32433 per cent.

Lutherans Told Of Urban Crisis

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP)—The Rev. Leland E. Gartrell, executive secretary of research of the Protestant Council of New York City, told the closing session of the Eastern Pennsylvania Synod, Lutheran Church in America, Thursday that there is a need for "a basic structural change in American Protestantism to meet the tremendous challenge of a new urban society."

"We are over-churching," he said, "and we know that we cannot afford all the real estate we own. We of the New York Protestant churches own $250 million of real estate in Manhattan alone. But our present Protestant population has shrunk to 250,000. This is clearly an unhealthy proportion."

State Gets Funds For Fish, Game

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pennsylvania will be allotted $411,874 for wildlife and $2,350 for fish under a $12,600,000 federal aid program for fish and wildlife projects, Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., reported Friday.

Dent said he was informed by the Interior Department that the $12.6 million fund is a preliminary distribution and will be followed by more funds in the fall.

The federal aid money comes from an excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition and on fishing rods, reels, creels and artificial lures.

Distribution is made on a formula based on the number of paid license holders in a state and on the state's area.

Thugs Snatch Bankward $4,100

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Three thugs snatched an estimated $4,100 Friday from a woman insurance messenger who was en route to a bank.

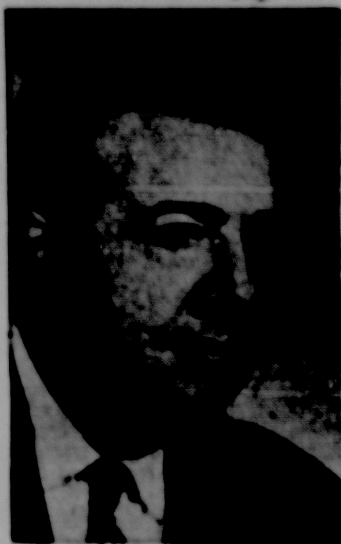

The holdup occurred outside the office of the American General Life Insurance Co. on the West End.

Mrs. Anna Hostlein, about 50, was roughed up slightly but did not require medical attention.

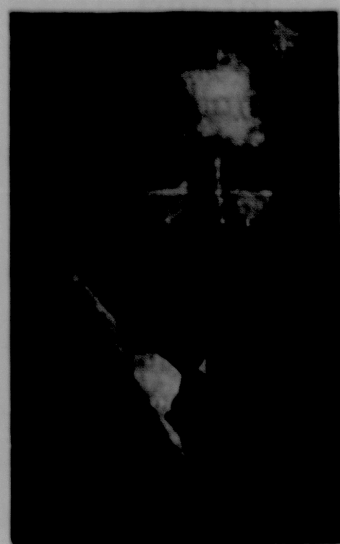

The bandits grabbed a bag with the money and $1,900 in checks from her and fled in a car.

K. Of C. State Convention Opens Today

TAMMINGTON — The 65th annual state convention of the Pennsylvania Knights of Columbus will open at Tamiment today and continue through next Tuesday.

More than 50 priests and several hundred knights and their wives are expected to register for the meeting. They will be welcomed by James Ogden, grand knight of Father Butler Council 1084.

Stroudsburg, and James Murphy, deputy for the 21st district who is also convention chairman. Sunday's activities will start with a solemn high mass celebrated in St. Matthew's Church, East Stroudsburg, at 10 a.m. with Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Macklen as celebrant, Rev. Daniel J. Brown as deacon, Rev. Joseph A. Kelly O'Prism as sub-deacon and Rev.

Joseph N. Gross, state chaplain of the K. of C., delivering the sermon.

A banquet followed by dancing will highlight the Sunday night program.

Honored guests at the banquet, in addition to Father Gross, will be Dr. William J. Costello of Philadelphia, state deputy; Warren J. O'Donnell, Lancaster, past state deputy; Leonard Orr, Marshall, state secretary, and William Carroll, Jim Thorpe, state treasurer.

Peter J. Carlesimo, director of athletics at the University of Scranton, will be the principal speaker and Dr. Eugene Powers, a member of the faculty at East Stroudsburg State College, will be toastmaster.

Dow Calculator Editor Will Address Service Club Session

STROUDSBURG — Myron L. Matthews, manager-editor of the Dow Building Cost Calculator, will speak on how local growth is affected by building costs at a meeting of Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Members of the Master Builders Assn. of Monroe County and area realtors have been invited to attend the session, which is co-sponsored by Kiwanis, Rotary and the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

Matthews heads the division of F. W. Dodge Corp., a division of McGraw-Hill, which analyzes building and construction reports for commerce, industry and the government.

Matthews is the author of more than 1,000 published articles and papers upon subjects concerning building construction, real estate, fire insurance, appraising, tax assessing and building costs.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Billed as "The Social Affair of the Year in the scenic Pocono of Pennsylvania" the annual banquet of the Eastern Pocono Resort Assn. certainly lived up to its motto on Thursday night. Arriving late, I found parked in every available spot — a thousand, I thought, as I drove around and around the mulberry bush.

It couldn't have been a thousand, since there were 350 people there, and I presume husbands and wives came in the same car but it still was a mighty mob of people. And so what? Well, I can't think of a major business or profession in the county that wasn't represented by somebody, plus all the political office holders.

And the wives looked simply splendid, once you borrowed under the blanket of smoke and the coming-in-from-the-cold fog on glasses so you could see them. All those new dresses must have boosted the local fashion shops considerably. Fortunately there will be plenty of places to wear them during the coming Laurel Blossom festivities.

Elise Pipper and her daughter, Imogene Weiss, who were at home hostesses looked mighty calm and unruffled by all the excitement. But I'll bet Fran Shinn, in spite of his TV training, will be hoarse today after calling roughly 100 prize winners. Especially with everybody competing at the top of their lungs.

I count no day lost when I meet somebody new. And among the "somebody's" was Mrs. John Calhoun. Although her husband's been busy about Vacation Bureau Business all winter, she's been insured in the country with a broken leg suffered when they first moved in. Anyway, this was her first major outing, like a butterfly emerging or something.

Some other interesting people I met will be making news of their own shortly — so just be patient.

Besides, I have to get home and catch up on a solid week's sleep in the next 12 hours so I'll be all bright and shiny-eyed for Shirley Dymond's wedding to Bob Stoflet today. Judging from the glimpse I got of people heading for the rehearsal dinner at Glen Brook last night, it's going to be beautiful.

Johnson-Christman Rites Held At Jerusalem Church

Kresgeville—Mrs. Judy E. Christman, daughter of Mrs. Madlyn Getz, Kunkletown, RD 1, and William Getz, of 3301 Nazareth Pike, Bethlehem, became the bride of Stanley W. Johnson, Jr., on April 27 at 4 p. m. at the Jerusalem United Church, Trachville.

Mr. Johnson is the son of Mrs. Glendora Johnson, of Mount Pocono, and Stanley Johnson, Sr., of Kunkletown, RD 2.

Rev. Mark Michael performed the double-ring ceremony with Mrs. LeRoy Hinkle serving as organist. The altar vases were filled with white carnations and snapdragons.

The bride wore a street-length dress of green chiffon with a matching lace jacket with long sleeves, circling the bodice with a satin bow, caught by a satin bow in front. Her matching headpiece was made of drop leaflets and seed pearls with a small crown of aurore beads. She carried white carnations and a white orchid.

Miss Barbara Strohl, of 1509 Hazard Road, Palmerton, was maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of yellow chiffon with a matching lace jacket with three-quarter length sleeves, open in the front. Her headpiece was a single yellow flower and seed pearls with a short veil. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

David Johnson served as his brother's best man.

Laurel Ball Reservations Open Now

The Junior Woman's Club of the Stroudsburg will again sponsor the Laurel Blossom Ball to be held on Friday, June 7, at the Fernwood in Bushkill.

Beginning at 9 p. m., the affair will honor the Laurel Princesses, and special features will include the Lafayette Glee Club and a fashion show presented by David Gothe, New York Couture Group designer.

Mrs. Richard Primrose is chairman of the committee on arrangements which includes Mrs. Stanley Grace, Mrs. Paul Edinger Jr., Mrs. William Huffman, Mrs. Stanley Wilsh and Mrs. Ronald Saxton. Tickets and reservations may be made with any of the committee. Since the number will be limited, early reservations are suggested.

Presbyterian Women Dedicate Mission Sewing

East Stroudsburg — A dedication service for the mission sewing of the Women's Assn. of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church was conducted at their meeting this week by Mrs. Nelson Cramer, Mrs. Jesse Flory, described the mission stations, to which the supplies are sent and Mrs. Milo Singer presented a comprehensive report of the weekly sewing group of the church.

An offering was taken for medical missions. Mrs. Charles Schaller conducted the devotions on the theme "Feed Three".

The East Stroudsburg Chorale, directed by Miss Nancy Koch, sang a group of songs, "The Wells Fargo Wagon," "Scarlet Ribbons," "Camptown Races" and "Moon River."

The Easter Circle served refreshments from a tea table decorated with pastel spring flowers.

Communists Exploit Weakness Council Learns

Blakeslee — A recording of the methods of Communists in dealing with captured American servicemen was presented at the May meeting of the Top of the Mountain Council of Republican Women held this week at Sportmen's Motel Blakeslee with Mrs. Franklin Miller, vice president, presiding.

The program stressed the lack of discipline among some of the servicemen which made it possible for the Communists to take advantage of their weaknesses, and the importance of faith in and love for country to stand fast in the face of subversive activities.

Mrs. Alice Shotwell, legislative chairman, reported on the highlights of Gov. Scranton's recent tax broadcast to Pennsylvanians. She was chosen to attend a luncheon meeting of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women at the Penn Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, on June 5. Other council members are also invited.

Mrs. Edward Mulligan, membership chairman, reported a total of 90 members with a number of new members added at this meeting. A concentrated membership drive will be held in the Fall. Political activities chairman, Mrs. George Kerrick, presented copies of the primary election ballot pointing out things which voters sometimes overlook.

Mrs. Ronald Davis reported on plans for the spaghetti supper to be held June 8 at Naomi Lake Boat-house, Pocono Pines and announced that tickets are now on sale. Members who have items for the white elephant sale at the supper were asked to call Mrs. Alice Shotwell.

Mrs. Mervin Fontanella, organizer of the council, spoke briefly. The next meeting will be held June 17 at Naomi Lake Boat-house, Pocono Pines. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Franklin Miller to Mrs. Alice Shotwell, Mrs. Grace Bush, Mrs. Howard Kerrick, Mrs. James Waygood, Mrs. Ronald Davis, Mrs. Raymond Newhart, Mrs. Ernest Wittmann, Mrs. Irene Malsch, Mrs. Richard Keiper, Mrs. Dora Field, Mrs. Ernest Lewis, Mrs. Frank Johannesson, Mrs. Betsy Seeley, Mrs. Andrew Renwick, Mrs. Mary Cobleigh, Mrs. George Kerrick, Mrs. Lenore Baxter, Mrs. Edward Mulligan, Mrs. John Bush, Mrs. Robert Newhart, Mrs. Harold Woehle, Mrs. John Ratliff, Mrs. John Zarlinski, Mrs. Fontanella and Mrs. Claude Bush.

Heat tomato juice (for aspic) with a cut clove of garlic, then discard the garlic before adding softened gelatin.

Mrs. Harry Baustein, chairman, read the auditor's report. Mrs. William Hannas and Mrs. A. M. Hickey were members of her committee.

Swimming Accident Victim Home

Stroudsburg — If last August seems a long time ago to you, it seems even longer to Miss Cynthia Shook, teen-age daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shook of Cedar St., Stroudsburg. Cynthia had a swimming accident at Stokes Mill last August and since then has been in and out of the hospital and confined to her home.

In between times she has been keeping up with her school work through at-home teaching and has earned her credits for the current year.

She has just returned from St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, where she was a surgical patient to fuse a bone on the vertebrae. Because of the coming hot weather, she is not in the customary cast but in a brace which means that she must exercise special caution.

What has made the time pass a little faster, Cynthia says, is the friends who sent cards and gifts while she was hospitalized, for which she extends her sincere thanks.

Beginners Class Opens For Spanish

With beginners clamoring to get in on the Spanish Conversation Group sponsored by the Pocono Art Center, Miss May Adam, who holds the rank of Brigadier in the Salvation Army, is assisting Miss Leni Eisenmann, leader of the group and a teacher in East Stroudsburg High School.

Miss Adam, in the course of her service with the Salvation Army, lived for seven years in Argentina and speaks excellent Spanish. She has volunteered to start the beginners with their Spanish lessons.

The next meeting of both groups will be held Tuesday night, May 28, at the home of Mrs. Lincoln Kutscher, 265 Washington St., East Stroudsburg. Anyone wishing to join in the conversation or to begin the study of the language is welcome. There is no charge other than membership in the Art Center.

Bickering Inspires PTA Skits

Sibling rivalry and other clinical terms will be spelled out and related to every-day home situations at the meeting of the Hamilton Parent-Teachers Assn. on Monday night at 8.

A series of five skits, written and produced by Mrs. John Sebring, will dramatize the question "Must Children Bicker and Quarrel?" Taking part in the skits will be 13 Hamilton school children, one Stroud Union student and six parents.

Linda Jean Metzgar, Karen Sebring, Mrs. Thomas Shanley, Fred Faustick, James Shanley, Debbie Nordmark, Robert Faustick, Michael Steen, Mary Schimpf, Joseph Snyder, Mrs. Thomas Phillips, Wayne Phillips, Karen Arms, Melissa Shanley, Sherry Hauser, Mrs. Louis Steen, Scott Young, Jacquelyn Rhine, Mrs. Claude Klinger and Mrs. John Sebring.

Walter Melnikoff, county council president, will install the new PTA officers: Thaddeus Sharer, president; Mrs. Thomas Phillips, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Rhine, secretary; and Mrs. Jack Wilson, treasurer.

Bedside Parties Gladden Birthday For Mrs. Hines

Mount Pocono — Mrs. William Hines, Kinney Ave., Mount Pocono, who has been confined to her bed for the past eight years, was the guest of honor at a series of birthday parties which has become traditional with her Canasta Club, members of the Altar and Rosary Society and the Fire Company Aux.

The Canasta Club served cake and ice cream from 1 to 2 p. m.

The Altar and Rosary Society of St. Mary of the Mount Catholic Church followed for a visit and a recitation of the Rosary. Guests included Rev. John Walsh, Mrs. Louis Hartman, Mrs. Joseph DeSanto, Mrs. Angelo Battisto, Mrs. Anthony Vlassak, Mrs. John Reagan, Mrs. Frank Manier, Mrs. Paul DeSanto, Mrs. George Reiz, Mrs. Thomas Sables, Mrs. Charlotte McGill, Mrs. Ann Toth, Mrs. J. H. Stegner, Mrs. Marie Taylor, Mrs. Michael Choppo, Miss Pauline Schreifer, Mrs. William McCarthy, and Mrs. John Sutton.

In the evening, Mrs. Hines was presented with a life membership card and a silver vase which will be filled with flowers on each birthday from the Women's Aux. of the Mount Pocono Fire Co. The gift was presented by Mrs. Louis Hopkie, Mrs. George Reiz, Mrs. Alvin Mac Williams and Mrs. O.W. Morgengal Jr.

During the day there were many gifts, long distance calls and good wishes, and flowers, including the usual long-stemmed roses from her husband.

Girl Scouts Live Motto: Be Prepared

Preparing to serve in times of disaster when doctors and nurses may be unavailable or busy with critical cases, Senior Girl Scouts of East Stroudsburg, Tannersville and Barrett are enrolled in a course on medical self-help, to provide them with basic information.

Sponsored by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the course is being implemented by the medical division of the Department of Health and administered by the State Civil Defense.

Dr. James Fahl, a member of the Medical Council and civil defense is in charge of the series of 12 lessons which includes 16 hours of instruction. Dr. Claus Jordan also attended the last meeting of the group to assist in instructions.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Small talk in our Employees' Lounge was seasoned with excitement Thursday morning when Peggy Weaver described her thrilling experiences with a group of Den Mothers in New York the preceding day. The trip had been planned for weeks and is an annual one, but by coincidence it fell on "Gordo Day" in the Metropolis—the day when Gordon Cooper and the six other astronauts were saluted with the biggest ticker tape parade in the city's history.

Peg and her eight companions joined the throng at City Hall to see the six heroes and their wives (Colonel Glenn was in Japan) but since the throngs were so dense they changed position to Lafayette Street. Luck was with them. Along came the parade and the cars with the astronauts stopped directly in front of them. The girls waved to the astronauts... the astronauts smiled and returned the greeting, and Peggy had an excellent opportunity to survey them all.

Her capsule opinions follow: Major Cooper is very slight of build (I had wondered why he was so frequently described as the "little" astronaut.) His wife is very petite and was kept busy waving her tiny hands in dainty white gloves. The Cooper daughters, riding apart from their parents, had a ball waving and bouncing around, not missing a trick. Of all the astronauts, Alan Shepard seems to be the handsomest, and all of their wives looked very chic, sophisticated, and glamorous, with blonde hair predominating.

From the fellows who have really been out of this world to the matinee of "Stop the World I want to Get Off", the Den Mothers had themselves a memorable day.

Hearing Peggy describe her experiences, Claude Miller interrupted to demand, "Say, did you ever stop to think how many of those astronauts were once Boy Scouts? Most of them were."

"I hadn't known that," Peggy said, "but I suppose that's why they waved so enthusiastically to the Den Mothers." Another reason? It was their good deed for the day!

Thinking about Father and his day, June 16th? If he's an outdoor, sports-loving fellow he may appreciate a few sweat shirts, of 100% cotton with deep fleece lining, ragland sleeves, free-action underarm gussets, ribbed cuffs and waistband. These have covered seams for extra durability, and come in black, white, or gray (a few olives) at 2.98. We mention them because a great many impatient customers have wondered when on earth we'd be getting a new shipment. Dad would also appreciate some cool, good looking Arrow dress shirts for summer... and we have 'em! We have 'em in Oxford Cloth, combed cotton, Decton and Dectolene, in white, Decton also comes in shades of Blue Tan, or Olive. Long sleeved Arrow dress shirts are 4.50. Others, 4.25 to 7.95.

Altar, Rosary Dinner Draws 140 Members

Bartonsville — "In the age of pluralistic beliefs, firm faith and principles should shine forth among men," Rev. Thomas E. McCann told the 140 members of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church at their May dinner meeting at the Bartonsville Hotel this week.

He urged them to become "Christophers, or bearers of Christ".

A statue of Our Lady of Fatima, surrounded by cascading blue daisies formed the centerpiece of the main table. President, Miss Marie Brown, welcomed the guests and introduced the chairman, Mrs. Richard Smith. Mrs. Manuel Deus introduced Miss Lisa Williams who entertained with her guitar and the following songs, "Gypsy Rover," "Scarlet Ribbons," "The Jamaica Farewell," "I Know Where I'm Going," "Auctioneer" and "The Yodeler".

Mrs. Thomas J. Cauley, moderator; Rev. Francis Barrett, Rev. John Essoff, and Msgr. Michael Kennedy spoke briefly.

Miss Brown introduced members of the Monroe-Pike Deanery: parish chairman, Mrs. Thomas Leonard; Catholic charities, Mrs. George Rung; cooperation with CCD, Mrs. Lewis Rosa; family and parent education, Mrs. Edward Mesik; spiritual development, Miss Eve Zatezny; and public relations, Mrs. J. J. McCluskey.

Mrs. Theodore Shultz installed the following officers: president, Miss Marie Brown; vice president, Mrs. Manuel Deus; recording secretary, Mrs. Richard Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Harrison; and financial secretary, Mrs. Francis Moyle.

Members of the executive board introduced included: program, Mrs. Manuel Deus; music, Mrs. Arthur Henning; altars, Mrs. James Lorin; cheer and sympathy, Mrs. Frank Maguire; ways and means, Mrs. Lawrence Horn; hospitality, Mrs. Robert Neal; publicity, Mrs. Richard Dishman; membership, Mrs. Z. J. Viechnicki and Mrs. John Hauser; year and log books, Mrs. William Hannas, and Mrs. A. M. Hickey, Mrs. George Rung, Mrs. Theodore Viechnicki, Mrs. Adolph Oppel, Mrs. Thomas Leonard, Mrs. Arthur Blewitt, Mrs. Richard Smith and Mrs. Joseph Harrison.

Mrs. E. B. Chura was in charge of tickets; Mrs. Bernard Frantz, hospitality; Mrs. Arthur Henning, music; Mrs. Manuel Deus, program, and Mrs. Edward Dreibe and Mrs. Mary Smith, arrangements.

Mrs. Harry Baustein, chairman, read the auditor's report. Mrs. William Hannas and Mrs. A. M. Hickey were members of her committee.

Women Of Salvation Army Renounce Lesser Vanities For Larger Feminine Role

This is National Salvation Army Week, and a fitting time to pay tribute to the women who serve it, represented in this community by Mrs. Henry Baker, wife of Major Baker, and helper in a multitude of his activities, both in and out of the local Citadel, and by Brig. May Adam, retired, who even in retirement is serving the community in many ways including instructing the beginners in the Spanish Conversation Group at the Pocono Art Center.

Few women are willing to give up the dream of being married in a white bridal gown—fewer still are willing to let someone else choose their house and its furnishings. Very few are willing to commit themselves and their families to being moved from town to town in the service to others.

But the women who earn their commissions as Salvation Army officers give up all these feminine prerogatives and many more. In choosing to wear the regulation uniform of The Salvation Army, they renounce traditional interest in styles, make-up and bouffant hairdos. They give up the fun of choosing a new and exciting hat each Easter time. Instead they proudly don, year after year, the traditional bonnet of The Salvation Army.

In addition to assuming the duties of a wife and mother, as a Salvation Army officer and ordained minister she also provides spiritual guidance and practical counseling and instruction. The house she keeps may be one of 36 homes and hospitals maintained by The Salvation Army to care for unmarried mothers and their babies. She may manage two kitchens, one for her own family, and another to feed 60 or more homeless and unattached men, many with alcoholic problems, who seek help at one of the 124 centers maintained by The Salvation Army. She may find herself mothering several hundred children during the summer camping season or 60 children each week at one of the 22 settlements and day nurseries operated by The Salvation Army. She may share in the management of one of the 15 Evangeline Residences for business women with limited to see if bones part easily.

Or her assignment may involve helping the mother of four little ones manage on a limited income. If she takes her degrees in social work studies after winning her commission, she may be called on

Barbecue From A Man's Point Of View

A chicken barbecue in the open is a very pleasant way to entertain the family or a group of friends, and it is not necessary to have elaborate equipment, explains County Agent John Withrow.

All that is necessary is a grill raised a foot to 16 inches above a charcoal fire. For 10 halves of chicken, use from 10 to 15 pounds of charcoal briquettes. The fire should be started about 1½ to 2 hours before the chicken is to be served. Place briquettes in a pile, light and allow to burn for about 15 minutes before spreading them evenly over the pit floor.

Lay the chicken on the grill, bone side down. Turn it every three or four minutes depending on how hot the fire is to avoid blistering from the heat. Each time the chicken is turned baste it with a barbecue sauce. One frequently used is ½ pint vinegar, ½ pound butter and one ounce salt. This amount is enough for 10 halves of chicken, each half weighing about 1 pound.

It requires from 1 hour to 1½ hours to thoroughly cook chicken. An easy way to tell if the chicken is done is to grasp the side of chicken by the thigh, and then with the other hand twist the end of the leg. If the bones part easily at the joint, the chicken is done. With larger halves, you might twist the wing

You Too Can Be A Writer, Says British 20-Year-Old

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures Writer
You've always wanted to write a book? Well, what's stopping you? Pretty, 20-year-old Charlotte Bingham of London has taken the giant step and written an autobiography "Coronet Among the Weeds."

Charlotte, who looks like Elizabeth Taylor, says: "Young people can write if they discipline themselves, and the best way is to have a job, and write in your spare time."

"Make a routine of it," Charlotte advises. "I wrote from 6:30 in the evening until about one in the morning. All the young girls I know, who have written books, also have jobs. That way they are not distracted and not bored."

Charlotte works as a secretary, "but I'm not very good." She has had 17 jobs. She wrote the book in four months while working at the war office.

She started writing at eight years old. Her mother is French and Irish, a playwright and novelist; her Irish father, Lord Clannmorris, is best known for his suspense stories written under the name John Bingham.

"You can't lock yourself in a room and become a writer. Your personality will close in on you. You need discipline unless you have extraordinary character. A painter can see progress, but to me writing is the most boring of the arts, nothing but words and paper," she says.

She doesn't believe she could have written this book if she'd gone to college.

"Life at a university doesn't reflect real life. You get too intellectual, a too closed point of view to maintain a creative urge. But it is rare for British girls to go to college, unless they want to become teachers, go into scientific work or are outstandingly clever. If you wanted to do something artistic, it would be a terrible waste if you didn't go to art school," she points out.

She had envied her friends in universities. But then she asked what they did "to see what I was missing."

"They said 'we read a terrible lot of books,' and I said 'Well, I read a terrible lot of books.' They said 'Well, we meet a terrible lot of people, and I said 'Well I meet a terrible lot of people in my 17 jobs,' and then I asked them whether they would send their daughters to the university. They said 'No, there was no advantage.'"

You must study shorthand and typing anyway, she says, to get a job, "so why not study it first as last?"

And British girls are marrying younger—"straightway at 18 or 19, and should learn how to become useful socially. Their husbands can't eat diplomas," she pointed out.

English girls usually go abroad for one year, learn a language, to cook, to do flower arrangements, to run a house, she says. Charlotte attended the Sorbonne in Paris, made her debut, and then began her job.

"My book is mostly memories of people I've met, not really an autobiography," she says. Some of her adventures are pretty sophisticated, and she describes her goal to find a superman. Like many young girls of 18, she had imagined she was in love with an older man.

She has written another book, plans to write a play and television comedy with her mother, "and then I'll stop," she says, "and buy a small house with a garden in London."

Coats, Boots Heating System For Fire Co.

Delaware Water Gap — The Women's Aux. of the Delaware Water Gap Volunteer Fire Co. closed their season with a meeting at the home of Mrs. LeRoy Kaiser on Monday night.

The officers who attended the joint meeting with the men of Chemical Hose Co. reported that bids would be received for the new heating system of the firehouse and another joint meeting would be called to consider the bids. The women have been invited to meet with the company twice a year.

The auxiliary will purchase three sets of coats and boots for the firemen this spring and they plan to purchase more sets in the fall.

A committee was appointed to make plans for a dance to be held in the fall, with Mrs. Rodney Baechold, Mrs. Lewis Ace, Mrs. LeRoy Kaiser, Mrs. Robert Carlton and Mrs. John Sutton serving. The report of the recent dance held at the Hof-Brau was given by Mrs. Baechold who reported a substantial profit.

A committee was also named to measure the firehall window and find out the cost of drapes; Mrs. Willard Kitchen, Mrs. Harry Buzzard and Mrs. Lewis Ace.

Miss Nellie Burd was instructed to continue sending out cards to members who may be ill or bereaved. Reports were given of the demonstration party and donations sent in by those who could not attend.

Present were Mrs. Stanley Siptroth, president; Mrs. Baechold, Mrs. Harry Buzzard, Mrs. Nelson Lightner Sr., Mrs. P. A. Rockefeller, Mrs. Willard Kitchen, Mrs. Russell Shellenberger, Mrs. John Sutton, Mrs. Orien Lambert, Mrs. Lewis Ace, Mrs. Robert Carlton, Miss Nellie Burd, Mrs. William Fisher and Mrs. Kaiser.

Refreshments were served.

Trip Tips And Three Recipes From Visit To The Amish Countryside

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

If you're ever driving toward Lancaster, Pa. on Rt. 30, be sure to stop in at the Dutch Haven and tell "Weaver" I said, "Hello!" This week Henrietta Reaser and I took a trip to the Amish country and stopped in at the Dutch Haven for a piece of the most delicious shoofly pie I have ever eaten! It was served warm with a big gob of whipped cream, and believe me, it was delectable.

In fact it was so good we stopped at their bake shop and bought pies to bring home. You can even see them baking in the oven, and the wonderful aroma is enough to wish you could buy every one.

"Weaver" who owns Dutch Haven was kind enough to take Henrietta and me on a tour of the Amish farmsteads (the also has a large grade service at his restaurant-gift shop). Although I have traveled through this country before, I had never seen it through the eyes of a native. He showed us the primitive way the farms are supplied with water and it is as if you have stepped back a century. There are no telephone poles or electric wires, just one beautiful farm after another with windmills and waterwheels dotting the countryside.

We had a special treat when we stopped at a one room schoolhouse and gave each of the many children a piece of taffy. They were adorable in their Amish clothes and haircuts, and each one very politely thanked us.

At the Amish Farm House I bought a local church cookbook — naturally, I can't resist a cookbook! This one, similar to our local cookbooks, is a collection of favorite recipes of the Women's Fellowship of The Mechanic Grove Church of the Brethren, Quarryville, Pa. All recipes look wonderful, but I chose three of them that I thought you might like to try, too. Weaver seems to be a popular name in this area; I don't know if Thelma is a relative of our kind host or not, but the recipe sounds good.

Thelma Weaver's Swedish Meat Balls

2 pounds finely ground hamburger
3 slices bread, soaked in ½ cup evaporated milk
½ cup catsup

Mix, shape in balls. Fry until brown. Put in electric frying pan or oven. Add:
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
2 cups tomato sauce
Boil gently until onion and celery is tender and sauce thickens, or bake in 325 oven.

Weaver also took us to The Old Village Store which is a most fascinating place if you love unusual gift shops. It is an old barn with four separate rooms filled with unusual items. Two of the rooms are connected by a covered bridge, "the shortest in the U.S.A."

It's almost picnic time; this sounds good for that first one of the summer.

Mrs. Lloyd Kroider's Macaroni Salad

Cook and drain 1 cup macaroni. Boil well:
1½ tablespoons lemon juice or 2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon salad oil
Mix with macaroni and chill for several hours.

Mix into the macaroni:
1 tablespoon grated onion, or 2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup diced celery with leaves
1 cup minced parsley
½ cup chopped stuffed olives
¼ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper
3 tablespoons sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
Serve on lettuce.

You must drive slowly through the Amish land so that you do not bump into one of the horse and carriages that are the only means of transportation for the Amish people. And of course, you are also asked to respect their religion and not try to take pictures of the people for they believe that photographs are graven images forbidden by God.

And do take a good appetite with you if you have the opportunity to visit Lancaster County, for these people certainly know how to eat and show a display of food!

Betty Zorphy's Honey Rhubarb Pie

4 cups rhubarb, cut in ½ inch pieces
1½ cups sugar
6 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
One-third cup strained honey
4 to 5 drops red food color
pastry for 2 crust 9-inch pie
2 tablespoons butter

Combine rhubarb, sugar, flour and salt. Mix well. Blend in honey and coloring. Let stand while making pastry.

Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Fill with rhubarb mixture. Dot with butter. Adjust top crust. Bake at 450 for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 350 and bake 35-45 minutes more.

Besides sampling the food, do be sure to also visit the Stroudsburg Railroad, Dutch Wonderland Castle (the whole front is built like a castle), the Hex Barn, the Craft House, to name only a few. You'll come back to our Poconoville filled and happy that we have such nice neighbors.

222 Locally Passing Up Social Security Pensions

(Special to the Record)

NEW YORK, May 21 — A number of Monroe County residents will soon be getting windfalls in the form of Government pension checks.

These payments, unsought and unexpected, represent benefits due them under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance system. They are entitled to them because of their contributions over the years, to the OASI trust fund.

Then why are they not receiving them? Simply because they did not apply for them.

The OASI officials themselves were startled to discover recently that there are more than 1,000,000 in the United States who are eligible for pensions but are not getting them.

When it became apparent that there were more of them than had been realized, they gave their giant computers the task of finding out just how many. An avalanche of names poured out of the machines.

For every 17 people or so who are receiving monthly pension checks, there is an additional one, it develops, who should be but is not.

In Monroe County, there are an estimated 222 of these non-collecting eligibles.

They could be receiving anywhere from $40 a month, which is the minimum amount paid, to the present maximum of $254 a month.

The average old-age benefit, according to the latest OASI figures, is $76.18.

On the basis of this average, the 222 local beneficiaries who are on the missing list are passing up payments aggregating about $16,912 every month, or $202,910 a year.

Some spot-checking on the part of the Government reveals that there are many reasons to explain the failure of qualified people to apply for their pensions.

Most of them didn't think they were eligible. This was frequently so in the case of men and women who continued working beyond age 65.

Ross Common Playhouse Will Re-Open

SAYLORSBURG — Ross Common Playhouse will begin their production again this summer after two years of inactivity.

The co-producers for the season will be Robb Haas of Fullerton, a director of the Pennsylvania Dutch players and active in local Lehigh Valley theater and music circles, and Bob Vogel, of Saylorsburg, a member of Actor's Equity.

The season will open June 27, and shows will be presented from Thursday through Saturday with a Sunday twilight show at 6 p.m.

The playhouse will feature comedy only. Casting and auditions for the season will begin at the Playhouse Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Volunteers are needed for both acting and production. Guest directors will be used for each show, and talent from Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton and Stroudsburg areas will be used.

PIONEERS For TOMORROW

Pioneers are as plentiful today as ever . . . indeed, in this world of ever-new frontiers, you too, are a pioneer.

As such, you bear great responsibility, for defined, "a pioneer is one who goes before, preparing the way for others to follow."

The Church reaches out to you in greatest urgency. It needs you to help, by example and precept, combat the greed and intolerance that today threaten our world.

The Church needs you as another pioneer in Christian example and thinking. You can help prepare the way for others by promoting generosity, kindness, and love toward all other human beings.

Through the Church you can, as a pioneer, strive most effectively toward generous, tolerant tomorrows for your fellowmen.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are:

(1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SportScope

by KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

DEATHS IN THE sports world continue to mount at a fearsome pace. Within the last week, Ernie Davis, of course, was the most notable. A couple days ago, Judge Clifford C. Cravath—the "Gavvy" Cravath who held baseball's pre-Babe Ruth home run record—died in his sleep at 83. Davis, a victim of leukemia, lived less than a half-decade of that span.

Cravath was born before my time; Davis was not. Davis was a football great—undoubtedly the greatest—at Syracuse University, a school I attended for two years. I never saw Davis play, nor ever met him. But I did see Jimmy Brown in his collegiate hey-day in several games at Archbold Stadium.

They say Davis was better than Brown, and I'll take their word for that. But what a combination the two of them could have made with the Cleveland Browns—or any other pro team, for that matter. Like Jack Kist, the astute grid mentor at East Stroudsburg High School, mentioned to us the other day:

"Boy, with the two of them in the backfield, you'd have one guy running over you and the other running around you—how could you stop them?"

It took a disease named leukemia to stop Davis, the first Negro ever to win the coveted Heisman trophy. Davis was to collegiate football as Jackie Robinson was to professional baseball. But this morbid subject of death to prominent sports figures recalls a visit to New York City a short time ago. I didn't expect a tour of The Bowers to be pleasant. And it wasn't.

This one guy I met was a bartender. His name was Jimmy Keenan (his real name—I didn't get his professional name). He told me he was a pro boxer in his day. I believed him. He certainly looked it—cauliflower ears, flattened nose, a generally beaten face. It was difficult to understand him.

"Yeah, I fought some of the best. . . . Could have beaten most of them, too. . . . Maybe even become champ, who knows?"

I asked the obvious: "What happened?"

"Look, kid, don't be stupid. I told ya, I could have been a real big name, like somebody you'd remember, y'know, like Rocky Graziano, Ray Robinson, somebody like that. You've heard of them guys, ain't ya? Yeah, that's what I thought, but you never heard of me. Y'know why?"

"No."

"Because I was controlled by the mob, y'know what I mean. I mean I had to take a dive most of the time. I could beat almost everybody I ever faced, but I was never given the chance. Y'know what I mean?"

"Yeah."

"You think I'm bragging, but I could have been one of the best. Should have been, too. Had a wife, two kids, a lot to live for. But I needed money fast. Debts piling up, things like that. They knew it, too. The mob, I mean. They knew it. So they paid me to take dives. So I took the dives, and I took the money. I paid the bills. And that's about all. Now, all I think of, is that one day I could have become champion of the world. Well, maybe. But I could have had the chance. They just wouldn't let me."

"Well, you still got your family to live for," I offered.

"Yeah, y'think so, huh? I lost that, too. Seems like when I lost all respect for myself, my family lost all respect for me. I'll tell ya, kid, they left me. And I don't blame them much, either. Got two fine boys. But they'll never box. Know why? I'll tell ya why. They don't want to be like their old man. Don't blame them, either. Sometimes I wish I were dead, pal."

"Do you really mean that?" I asked. "Just because of boxing?"

"All because of boxing?"

There were no tears in his eyes. Jimmy wasn't feeling too sorry for himself. He was merely living out his life the best way he could. "Nother beer?" he asked.

"No thank. I've had enough." I meant that in more ways than one.

On my way back to Manhattan, I couldn't help but feel sorry for a bartender named Jimmy Keenan in The Bowers. Much more sorry, in fact, than such famous sports figures as Ernie Davis, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, "Gavvy" Cravath, Jim Thorpe. Those immortals are all dead.

But Jimmy Keenan, ex-professional prize fighter, is still alive—living a living death, living in the past, and a pretty horrible past, at that.

The mob ruined more than the life of Jimmy Keenan in the once-fine sport of boxing. There will be no mention of his name in the record books, no recollection of either his real name or his professional name.

Jimmy Keenan is only one of the many reasons I have against professional boxing. In a way, I'm terribly sorry I met the man. But he told me his story—after considerable prodding—and I felt it was worth passing on.

I only regret the story could not have been one of the likes of Davis, Ruth, Gehrig, Cravath or Thorpe.

But then, I didn't go to The Bowers for "That Kind of Story."

Toughest Test For Cicada

NEW YORK (AP) — The Meadow Stable's champion Cicada runs into her stiffest opposition of the season Saturday at Aqueduct when she meets seven rival fillies and mares in the $50,000 Top Flight Handicap under a crushing 128-pound burden.

Cicada, now a 4-year-old, is the even money favorite for the 1 1/4-mile race, and will be ridden by a new jockey, Larry Adams, since Willie Shoemaker is busy at Hollywood Park.

E. Barry Ryan's Firm Policy, also 4 and unbeaten in two starts this year, is considered the most dangerous challenger to Cicada, a champion in both 1961 and 1962. Firm Policy, with 125 pounds, is second choice at 7-5 with jockey Manuel Ycaza.

Expect 50,000
A Saturday crowd of 50,000 is expected to make Harbor View Farm's Royal Patrice third choice at 4-1. Royal Patrice carries 121 pounds, with John L. Rotz in the saddle.

Others entered for the 24th running of the Top Flight, named for C. V. Whitney's famous filly champion of the early 1900's, were considered long shots at anywhere from 30 to 50 to 1. They are James Cox Brady's Upstart, 107; Warner L. Jones Jr.'s Frimania, 108; King Ranch's Tamarora, 111; Ogden Phipps' St. Bernard, 107; and T. F. White's Waltz Song, 113.

Lema Is Leader In Open

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Tony Lema moved into undisputed possession of first place after two rounds in the $50,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament Friday, but Harold Kneese stole some of his thunder with the tourney's best round.

It was a day of misfortune, though, for Jack Nicklaus, who shared the lead with Lema and six others after the first round. The former Ohio State star who now plays as a pro from Tucson, Ariz., double bogged the short third hole which heaced Thursday and faltered to a 73 for a 140 total.

Lema, the 29-year-old touring pro from San Leandro, Calif., fired his second straight 3-under-par 67 for a two-round total of 134, two strokes ahead of the field and six under par for the tourney.

Kneese, returning to the tour after five weeks of rest at his home in Aiken, S.C., sizzled over the par 34-36-70 Colonial Country Club course in 35-35-63 to gain a four-way tie for second place with Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Fla.; George Knudson of Toronto, and Jerry Edwards of Fort Worth.

Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia, and Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla., were close behind at 137. Fred Hawkins of El Paso and Bill Collins of Grossinger, N.Y., had 138.

Bunched At 39
Bunched at 139 were Dow Fisterwald of Tequesta, Fla.; Jack Fleck of Los Angeles; Bob Good of Belleville, Ill.; Johnny Pott of Gulf Hills, Miss., and South Africa's Gary Player.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, 1961 winner of this event and one of Thursday's co-leaders, had a 73 for a 190 total. Dick Mayer of Palm Desert, Calif., had 74 for a 141. Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark., blew from Thursday's 67 to 77 for a 144.

After Friday's round, the field of pros was cut to the low 73 scores and ties, with the cutoff coming at 146.

Jones' Speedway Record Is Safe

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A forecast of gusty winds up to 25 miles an hour made Parnelli Jones' Indianapolis Motor Speedway record look reasonably safe in Saturday's next-to-last qualifying session for the 49th 500-mile race May 30.

Jones made his 10-mile record run at 151.153 mph under similar conditions last Saturday after practicing in his Offenhauser-powered Agajanian Special at 133, which nobody else has approached.

15 Open Posts
Eighteen positions were filled in the first weekend, leaving 15 open in the 33-car starting field.

After 33 cars are qualified, another car can squeeze into the line-up only by bettering the speed of the slowest car in the field. At present, that is the English Cooper, fitted with a big Aston-Martin rear engine and which was qualified by 23-year-old Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico City at 146.667.

Fifteen of the unqualified cars have run 147.5 or better in practice.

Not many car owners are likely to tell their drivers to wait until Sunday's final qualifying session, in hope of better weather. If the field is filled Saturday and Sunday's trials are rained out, there won't be any more.

Three Weeks
There were 66 entries but three cars were washed out by wrecks. Only Jack Turner of Seattle has been seriously hurt in

Stroud Union Wins, 11-0

Frantz' No-Hitter Zeroes Cavaliers

STROUDSBURG — Freddy Frantz pitched a near-perfect no-hitter for the Mountaineers of Stroud Union yesterday as he blanked East Stroudsburg's Cavaliers, 11-0, in the season's finale for the two teams.

Only four Cavaliers reached base—two via walks and two more on Stroudsburg errors.

But Frantz was never in any difficulty at any time during the contest as the Mounties came up with five runs in the first inning and were never headed after that big start. Stroud Union added two runs each in the second, fourth and sixth innings to seal the verdict between the inter-boro rivals.

Big Gun

Ed Nevil was the big gun for the winners at the plate with a 3-for-4 day, including two doubles. Glenn Bisbing and Dave Pierson also delivered two-baggers for the Mounties of Coach Wilmont Smith. That trio of batters gained the only extra-base blows of the contest.

Pierson started things off fast for

QB Sneak Against Tulsa — And Crash Into 300 Pounds

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Richard Guinn's teammates call him "Tiny" — which of course means he isn't.

In fact, at 330 pounds Guinn is the biggest boy ever to play football at the University of Tulsa and may even be the biggest college football player around.

Guinn doesn't plan to weigh 330 when he plays next fall, though that's what he tips the scales at now. "I'll probably play at around 300," he says. "I played at 290 last year."

Guinn has been getting bigger each year since he graduated from high school in Bryan, Tex. He was 6-foot-7 tall then — as he is now — but weighed only 280 pounds. He didn't get an offer of a football scholarship and went to Wharton Junior College in Texas, on a basketball scholarship.

Liked Offense
After a year, he switched to Henderson, Tex., Junior College, where he played football last year. He got several offers and he completed his junior college eligibility, but chose Tulsa largely because it runs a "pro-type" offense which he thinks might help him get into professional football.

Guinn feels he was overlooked as a high school player because he played football only his sophomore and senior years and was not highly recommended as a football player — only as a "prospect."

Guinn has played tackle and middle guard on defense, but Coach Glenn Dobbs has moved him to center. Dobbs plans to use guards for linemen and add left to his line by using Guinn and 250-pound Charles Kenepley at center.

Guinn says his only nickname is "Tiny" or "Tiny Tim."

On Carr's Hot Putter

Britons Surprise In Walker Cup

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Joe Carr swung a red hot putter Friday that set the British amateur golf team afire and sparked the 2-1 underdogs to a 6-3 lead over the United States in the opening day's play of the Walker Cup competition.

Twelve more matches will be played Saturday, four 3-otch four-somes in the forenoon and eight singles matches in the afternoon. The same program was followed in the first day's play. All will be over 18 holes, in contrast to the competitors of the past when they were at 36 holes.

The surprising British team, beaten by a 11-1 count at Seattle two years ago, won only a single point in the morning's four-somes, where the partners hit alternate shots. The United States took two and one match was halved.

See U.S. Romp
There was every indication that the Americans again would romp to victory as they have every time except once since this competition was inaugurated in 1922.

The weather was atrocious. It was cold and the rain came down in barrels. The British cause — and the British partners — looked hopeless.

But suddenly the weather improved and the 42-year-old Carr, veteran of nine Walker Cup matches, went golf crazy. The British took five of the eight singles, halved two others and permitted only Billy Joe Patton of Marganton, N.C., to add to the U.S. total.

Carr birdied the eight, ninth, 10th and 11th holes in 3-5-3-2 and slaughtered Richard Sims 35-year-old U.S. Public Links champion from Springdale, Ark., 7 and 3. Word quickly spread to the other matches and the hearts of the Scots, Irish and Englishmen suddenly became twice their normal size.

Sinks Long Putts
During that four-hole run of birdies Carr sank 10-foot putts at the 8th, 9th and 11th and rummaged in a 34-footer at the 10th.

Friday's results:
Scottish foursomes: Michael Bonallack of England and Stuart Murray of Scotland defeated Patton and Sims 4 and 2. Downing Gray, Pensacola, Fla., and Labron Harris, Stillwater, Okla., defeated Carr and Charles Green, Scotland, 2 and 1. Deane Beman, Bethesda, Md., and Charlie Cox, Oklahoma City, defeated Michael Lunt, England, and David Sheehan, Ireland, 5 and 3. Bob Gardner, Essex, Fla. N.J., and Dr. Ed Updegraff, Tucson, Ariz., and David Madeley, Ireland, and Ronnie Shade, Scotland, finished all square.

Singles: Murray defeated Beman 3 and 2. Martin Christmas lost 3 and 2 to Patton. Carr defeated Sims 7 and 3. Sheehan defeated Harris 1 up. Bonallack defeated Richard Davies, Pasadena, Calif., 1 up. Sandy Saddler, Scotland, and Cox finished all square.

INGLESWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Winonly, one of the nation's top speed horses, and seven challengers were entered Friday in the $30,000-added Los Angeles Handicap at Hollywood Park Saturday.

The 5-year-old gelding, already a stakes winner at the meeting, will have to carry the colors of the Fred W. Hooper stable alone, however. His stablemate, Crozier, was scheduled to run as an entry in the Marjorie Stakes.

But trainer Clinton Tinsley decided not to enter Crozier because he "just isn't right" for his seasonal debut.

Winonly's opposition will come from such formidable rivals as the Vista Homebush's Crazy Kid, G. C. Frostad's Kisco Kid, Alberto Ranche Four-And-Twenty and the Dee Dee Stable's Sledge.

Varsity 'S' Banquet Set Tonight
STROUDSBURG — John Wilson, former general secretary of the Monroe County YMCA, will be the guest speaker tonight in the Penn-Strods Hotel at the annual Varsity "S" banquet honoring the graduating senior lettermen of Strods Union High School.

Special presentations of the Tom Waring and Arch Rundle awards will be made at the affair.

Varsity "S" officials said tickets still will be available at the door. Parent and friends are urged to attend.

Water Gap Boat Regatta Is Readied
DELAWARE WATER GAP — The roar of powerful outboards will be resounding throughout the day on the Delaware River as some of the best drivers in the east test their sleek crafts in final workouts today in preparation for tomorrow's sixth annual Delaware Water Gap outboard motorboat regatta.

Starting time is 12:30 p.m. on the New Jersey side of Kittatinny Beach off Rt. 611.

All classes of stock outboards will be represented in the regatta. Many of the drivers had already arrived yesterday and others were expected to arrive late today from Maryland.

This regatta is regarded by experts as not only one of the finest courses in the east but also one of the toughest because of its relatively narrow width. The event has always attracted many former United States class champions.

Cosponsoring the event along with the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce is the Atlantic Refining Co. of Philadelphia. The company also will award trophies to winners.

Archery Class Slates Contest
STROUDSBURG — Members of the boys' Archery class will meet today in the Monroe County Township School District, Monroe County, Pa., for a trip to the Pocono archery range for a shooting contest.

Ten targets have been set up in the field range and prizes will be awarded to the winners. A new class will start next week at 11 a.m.

Colts Edge Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Howie Goss' run-scoring single in the 12th inning gave Houston a 6-5 victory Friday, enabling the Colts to retain their mastery over the Chicago Cubs.

It was Houston's fifth triumph in five games with the Cubs this season. Last year the Colts finished with an 11-7 edge over the Cubs.

Al Spangler opened the 12th with a single, his fourth straight hit and his eighth hit in his last nine at bats. Spangler took second on a wild pitch by reliever Lindy M. Daniel after Bob Aspromonte struck out, and then scored on Goss' single.

Houston managed to win despite six errors—three by Aspromonte, who last year set a National League record for third basemen with 37 consecutive errorless games.

Swensson To Head Knight Publicity

FRED Swensson has been named Publicity Chairman for the forthcoming 66th Annual Pennsylvania Knights of Columbus State Convention that will be held on May 25-26 at Tannertown near Bushkill, Pa.

Swensson is a member of the Father Butler Council No. 4981 Knights of Columbus Stroudsburg, Pa., who is hosting this year's state convention. The convention will be attended by Knights and their wives from 267 Councils in the state of Pennsylvania.

Swensson is now serving as Chancellor of the Father Butler Council, and is also a member of the Father Butler Fourth Degree Assembly.

Col. Reichel To Speak At Optimists

STROUDSBURG — Col. M. J. Reichel, commanding officer of the Tobyhanna Army Depot, will be the Memorial Day speaker at the May 28 meeting of the Optimist Club in the Penn-Stroud Hotel at noon.

Prior to assuming command at the depot, he was commander of the U. S. Army Transportation Terminal Command, Atlantic, in Brooklyn.

He entered the Army in 1936. During World War II, as an engineer officer, he took part in several D-Day landings in the South and Central Pacific. Following the war, he served as regimental commander in Japan.

Dolphins Don't Dig Jazz

MOSCOW (AP) — Do dolphins share Soviet Premier Khrushchev's dislike of jazz? A school of them frolicked around the Soviet ship Kival in the Red Sea until its radio switched from a waltz to jazz, says the Soviet news agency Tass, and then swam away.

Buck Hill Addition Ready By December

BUCK HILL, PA. — Clifford R. Gilliam, president, and Richard Edgerton, general manager of the Buck Hill Falls Co., announced yesterday that the extensive addition and alterations of The Inn will be completed by mid-December.

"It is now clearly indicated that there will not be any inconvenience to guests during the summer months because of the construction, except possibly parking difficulties in the Post Office area near the construction site," they said.

The additions include a third dining room, which will be the approximate size of the present North dining room of The Inn, a new all-purpose lounge of similar size and 80 double rooms with private bath.

The new tower wing will contain six floors of bedrooms with northern exposure and five floors looking toward the Water Gap on the south. Twenty-four of the present rooms now in use will be converted for the staff of the company, with the result that The Inn will have 254 rooms with a normal capacity for 566 persons but adequate for at least 625. The three dining rooms will accommodate 750 persons at one sitting.

"The addition has been designed primarily for the comfort and pleasure of the regular resort clientele of The Inn and also for the growing convention business of the late fall, winter and early spring months," the officials said.

Two elevators at The Inn have been converted to the automatic and latest type. A third elevator in The Inn is now being changed and the new wing will contain two such elevators.

The architect is Henry J. Stojewski of New York formerly closely associated with the Statler Hotels and the general contractor is the John A. Robbins Co. Inc. of Philadelphia.

The mechanical and electrical engineers on the project are A. Ernest D'Amby Inc. of Philadelphia and the consulting structural engineers are Di Stasio and Van Buren of New York.
